HIBERNIANS SAY ROOSEVELT TALK INSULTED IRISH

PORTLAND, Ore., July 18.—Unless all signs fail, delegates to the national convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians will take pointed action on the speech made by Theodore Roosevelt in Guildhall, London, in June. A conflict is in prospect, as the more conservative delegates will oppose any official action at the convention, which opens to-morrow.

The more radical delegates declare the speech an insult to the whole Irish race, and un-American as well. Matthew Cummings of Boston, president of the Hibernians, is especially bitter in his denunciation of the ex-President. While President Cummings declares that Roosevelt's attitude is simply a personal matter with him, and that he will take no steps to bring the subject before the convention, other delegates probably will do so. The Vatican incident is also the subject of no little comment among leaders of the Hibernians.

Train loads of delegates are arriving daily, and it is expected by to-morrow there will be 1,200 here. President Cummings's first criticism of the Roosevelt incident was made recently at Lexington, Mass. In an interview given here Mr. Cummings said:

Misrepresented People.

"I have not changed my views a particle since I made that speech at the Lexington picnic. Ex-President Roosevelt misrepresented in his speech the American people, the lovers of liberty. This country has been the home of the oppressed of all lands and has always prided itself in being the champion and defender of weaker nations. It has always believed, as President Lincoln, the martyr of American liberty, believed, that no nation was good enough to govern another.

"The American people believe in government of the people, for the people and by the people. Roosevelt's speech was imperialism of the most brutal kind, because he has stated that ignorance and cruelty would be far better than the timid methods used by England for the government of the Egyptian people. His speech was particularly offensive to the Irish people, as they have suffered for 800 years from the very cruelty and injustice he advocated.

"Ireland has been governed by fire and sword and the hangman's halter during all these years, and in spite of England's tryanny and oppression the desire for freedom is still as great among the Irish people as it was when the English invader first landed on Irish soil. Roosevelt's speech, put into practice, would destroy the desire for freedom among all struggling nations.

"Irish Noted as Lovers of Freedom."

"The desire for freedom is next to freedom itself, and when you kill the desire for freedom in a people, you make them a race of slaves. So, as an Irishman, the head of a great Irish society, and as an American citizen, I disagree most emphatically with the sentiment expressed by ex-President Roosevelt in the Guildhall speech. The Irish people were always noted as lovers of freedom, not alone for their own, but for all races, and naturally they object to Colonel Roosevelt, a man who had been liked by the liberty-loving people of this country, going into England and preaching Cromwellianism of the strongest kind. It was a very undemocratic, un-American speech to make. It was an urgent recommendation of brute force, urging upon England that she keep down the weaker peoples, India and Egypt.

"I have simply made a personal matter of Roosevelt's attitude. Quite likely should a resolution come before the convention denouncing the Guildhall speech, it would provoke lively discussion on the part of Erin's sons."

BALLINGER VINDICATED BY COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, July 18.—"Richard A. Ballinger is vindicated. The Secretary of the Interior has been unjustly accused by Gifford Pinchot, James R. Garfield and Louis Glavis. He is the right man in the right place, and he ought to be invited to continue holding down the job as long as he cares to have it."

This summing up of the findings of the majority of the joint congressional committee, which for five months has been making an exhaustive investigation of the conduct of affairs of the entire Department of the Interior and also of the bureau of forestry of the Department of Agriculture. The findings have not been officially made public, but they are known nevertheless.

Line-up of the Committee.

The investigators who concur in these findings, which constitute a condemnation of the course of Gifford Pinchot, former chief forester; James R. Garfield, former Secretary of the Interior, and Louis R. Glavis, former chief of a field division of the general land office, will be found to be the following: Senator Knute Nelson, Minnesota, chairman; Senator Frank J. Flint, California; Senator George Sutherland, Utah; Senator Elihu Root, New York; Representative Samuel W. McCall, Massachusetts; Representative Edwin Denby, Michigan; Representative Marlin E. Olmsted, Pennsylvania.

Minority reports disagreeing with the foregoing findings will be made by Representative Edward H. Madison, Kansas; Senator W. E. Purcell, North Dakota; Senator D. U. Fletcher, Florida; Representative Ollie M. James, Kentucky; Representative J. M. Graham, Illinois.

To Report in September.

Madison is a Republican and the last four named men are Democrats. The basis of the report for the majority was prepared by Senator Nelson and for the minority by Representative James. Mr. Madison is writing his own opinion. It is understood that the results of the labors of Mr. Nelson and Mr. James have been submitted to the members of the committee for criticism and for additions. By the time the committee reassembles on September 10 it will have practically finally shaped the reports which it will make. It is intended to give the reports to the ess without delay in order that the arges shall not be uttered that the Reublican party deliberately suppressed the ndings because of the fear of the effect pon the impending congressional camaign.

PENNSYLVANIA STRIKE LIKELY TO BE AVERTED

PHILADELPHIA, July 18.—The crucial conference of the employes' leaders and General Manager Myers of the Pennsylvania Railroad concluded at 1:30 p. m. to-day. It was stated that the situation had partially cleared, but that another conference would be necessary later this afternoon or to-morrow. All indications are now that the crisis is past and that there is no further danger of a strike on the Pennsylvania lines.

CAMPAIGNING PARTY INJURED BY AUTO

EUREKA, Calif., July 18.—Secretary of State Charles F. Curry and three members of his party, who have been touring northern California in the interests of Curry's candidacy for the Governorship, had a marvelous escape from death, when the big Curry touring car skidded on the mountain road and plunged over a forty-foot embankment. The injured are: Charles F. Curry, both legs wrenched. Charles M. Bredhoff, San Francisco, face cut and one shoulder badly sprained. Lew Norton, San Francisco, back and hip wrenched. Chauffeur Ray Callahan escaped with a severe shaking up.

PARSON DAVIES, NOTED SPORTING MAN, DYING

NEW YORK, July 18.—"Parson" Davies, for years one of the most prominent figures in the American sporting world, is dying. He is at Coney Island, where he went after a stroke of paralysis suffered soon after he came here from New Orleans a month ago. He managed Peter Jackson when that fighter was at his best.

LANDSLIDE WRECKS ST. LOUIS FLYER

HAWESVILLE, Ky, July 18.—The St. Louis flyer on the L. H. & St. Louis Railroad, which left Louiseville, last night, for St. Louis, was wrecked by a landslide two miles from here early to-day. Fireman Reynolds was killed and several passengers slightly injured.

MOROS IN DEATH PLOT ARE SLAIN

MANILA, July 18.—In a fight on Palawan Island to-day three Moros were killed and several injured by the bodyguard of Dean C. Worcester, American Secretary of Education for the Philippines. The bandits had attempted to assassinate Dr. Worcester.

The attack by the renegade Moros was part of a plot against Provincial Governor Evans, the investigation developed. Governor Evans and Mr. Worcester had landed on the island and wished to take a boat for a river trip. A Moro leader objected and a parley followed. Then a group of warriors rushed from ambush, attacking the party. Mr. Worcester was in the front. At the crucial moment the guards, commanded by Captain Monyhan of the scouts, opened fire.

Five of the wounded were captured and placed under arrest. Others escaped in the jungle, but a detail of scouts was sent after them.

Dean Conant Worcester, who was born at Thetford, Vt., in 1866, has been secretary of the Interior of the Philippine insular government since Sept. 1, 1901. In the two preceding years he was a member of the U. S. Philippine commission, appointed by President McKinley in 1899. When first chosen he was a professor in the University of Michigan.

NATIONAL LEAGUE GROUNDS, July 18.—Those Doves, who have given the Pirates as much trouble as any team in the league this season, came on the surface to battle in a double-header with Clarke's men and expected to give the home team its usual bumps in spite of the fact that the Smoketown had just cleaned up the New York Giants their hottest rivals and were ready to do some more killing.

The advance guard of the Doves arrived early os as to get a line on the Pirate band and be able to get to them in the opening clash of the brace games that was on the card.

Frock and Brown wer picked as the slabbists by Manager Lake, while Director Clarke had a couple of his best men ready to meet them.

GIRL WILL TRY SWIM TO LIGHT

Another girl swimmer has made the swim from Bass Point to the Revere bathhouse. She is Miss Annie Morecroft of No. 22 Green street, Revere.

Believing that she could duplicate the feat made by Miss Alsie Aykroyd last Sunday, Miss Morecroft plunged into the surf at Bass Point at 2:05 yesterday afternoon.

Swimming with a strong stroke, she made her way through the waves, arriving at the Revere Beach bathhouse at 4:15.

Miss Morecroft showed no ill effects of her long time in the water and is full of confidence in her ability to attempt longer swims. Her brother, who is her trainer, believes that she is able to make the swim to Boston Light, and she may attempt it later in the season.

KIDNAPER OF HEN SENTENCED TO MONTH

Because he simply couldn't resist the temptation offered by a plump hen that cackled in her coop, James E. McGillnchey will have to serve one month in the House of Correction. Judge Murray imposed the sentence in the Municipal Court to-day. Testimony showed McGillnchey was passing the store of Yee Gee, Chinese poultry fancier in Beach street, when the hen emitted a few screams. McGillnchey pulled the grown up chick from the coop, legs first, and beat it up the street. Patrolman Gallagher of the Lagrange street station captured McGillnchey and hen after a one-mile dash.

THREE ARE HELD IN ROBBERY CASE

Charged with robbery, William J. Sullivan, twenty-five, John J. Coffey, twenty-one, and William Sweeney, forty, were each held in $2,000 for the Grand Jury, by Judge Murray, in the Municipal Court, to-day. Probable cause was found. Early Sunday morning, Benjamin Bain, of No. 9 Kendall street, Brookline, was held up, beaten, choked, and robbed of $25, on Warrenton street in the South End. The three men wer arrested after a chase by Patrolman Foley of the Lagrange street station.

MAYOR WHITE STARTS WORK CANING CHAIRS

LAWRENCE, July 18.—Mayor William P. White marched down to the caning room with the rest of the convicts in the jail to-day and started in work caning like any one of the ordinary criminals. This was the first day that the convict Mayor has actually been set at prison work, for he has now recovered sufficiently from his nervous breakdown resulting from the trial and sentence to perform the usual labor of the inmates of the jail.

He had no visitors during the day, and from now on he will be treated as any of the other prisoners and allowed to receive callers only during the jail visiting hour, and then only the limited number, so that the only persons who will be admitted to him will be his counsel and one or two city officials who come on municipal business.

Cahill May Run for Mayor.

The mayor has made no more statements, and is taking his commitment to the House of Correction as placidly as possible. If City Solicitor Daniel J. Murphy hands down an opinion, as is expected, that the Mayor cannot conduct the affairs of the city from his cell in the House of Correction, and that a successor must be elected by the City Council, an interesting contest is promised.

It is entirely probable, if the office of Mayor is declared to be vacant, that Dr. John T. Cahill, who was defeated for the office by Mayor White, will oppose Alderman Thomas M. Jordan, acting Mayor, Dr. Cahill having practically signified his intention of running for the office.

To Confer With Malone.

City Solicitor Daniel J. Murphy of this city left for Boston to-day. It is said his intention is to confer with Attorney-General Malone at the State House regarding the decision Solicitor Murphy is to render to-morrow, regarding the question of who is Mayor of Lawrence. The decision will cover the powers of the president of the Board of Aldermen, as set forth in the city charter, and also the legal status of "convict Mayor" White.

President Jordan of the board, who is acting Mayor, was on the job in City Hall to-day, in the Mayor's office. This afternoon, he accompanied the committee department in its inspection of the new Gamewell fire a'arm system, which cost the city $23,000.

BOSTON SEES BEGINNING OF BIG WAR GAME

Unless the unexpected happens, the twelve companies of the Coast Artillery Corps, M. V. M., Colonel Walter E. Lombard commanding, will be fully able to cope with the invading fleet of mimic warships when they make a concentrated attack on Boston harbor and the city next Friday night. The volunteers who will man the batteries to stall off the hostile ships with harmless gunfire and searchlights put in their first day of training in the forts today. The schooling proved grilling. Every company was shown how to handle the big thirteen-inch guns with which the defence will be conducted. The word with them now is "Save Boston and beat the enemy."

Five Days to Learn War Tricks.

The corps will now have five days in which to learn all the regulars know about battery defense work. The hostile armada

HIT BY AUTOMOBILE, CRAWLS A MILE

LOWELL, July 17.—Struck by a speeding automobile, which passed on without stopping, as he was walking to his home, John Riley, sixty-four years old, of North Billerica, crawled three-quarters of a mile to the North Billerica depot on his hands and knees and then collapsed. He was not found until morning. Riley is in the St. John's Hospital, suffering from a wound of the scalp, and possibly concussion of the brain and internal injuries. The police are looking for the automobile that struck him

WESTERN APPLES FOR THE EASTERN MARKET

SPOKANE, Wash., July 18.—Buyers for commission houses in New York, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia and other large distributing centers, traveling in the northwestern and Pacific States, estimate that 13,000 cars of from 9,500,000 to 10,000,000 boxes of apples suitable for eastern markets, will be shipped from commercial orchards in Washington, [illegible]ornia, Colorado, Oregon, Idaho, Mont[illegible] Utah [illegible] season.

CAMBRIDGE CAR JUMPS TRACKS; GIRLS INJURED

Seventy-five girl employes of the Hood rubber works in Watertown were thrown into a panic when a special trolley car leaving Harvard square shortly after 7 o'clock a. m. left the tracks in Huron avenue, near Appleton street, Cambridge. A score of the young women suffered a severe nervous shock. Four were prostrated and had to be taken to hospitals for treatment. A number fainted. Others were cared for in homes near the scene of the accident.

TWO VICTIMS IN SERIOUS CONDITION.

Two of the girls were in such a serious condition that they were taken to the Cambridge Relief Hospital. They were Minnie McIntire of No. 30 Custer road, Somerville, and Fannie Pluff of No. 6 Fourth street, East Cambridge. Later they were taken to their homes.

These girls suffered nervous shocks and were sent to their homes: Martha Lynch No. 30 Oak street, Somerville; Sadie Wall, No. 150 Gore street, East Cambridge; Mrs. Edna Cummings, No. 30 Oak street, Somerville; Margaret Meade, No. 239 Bridge street, East Cambridge; May Feeney, No. 146 Spring street, East Cambridge; and Louise Fay, No. 286 K street, South Boston.

Ambulances Kept Busy.

Immediately after the accident, word was telephoned to Captain James E. Murray, police station 1, Cambridge. Captain Murray at once dispatched two ambulances and the patrol wagon, with Dr. P. J. Fleming and Dr. W. H. Burke, along with a number of reserves.

The car was proceeding along Huron avenue at fair speed when it jumped the rails, for some unknown cause. The girls, who filled every seat, and the front and rear ends, with others standing up, were badly shaken up. Those who had to stand were taken off their feet. Many screamed.

Panic prevailed. People living along the avenue and nearby streets ran up at the sound of the car running over the street to the sidewalk and offered all the assistance in their power. That no bones were broken seemed a miracle, and was probably due to the fact that cooler heads in the crowd prevented the girls standing at the sides from jumping to the ground.

Drs. Fleming and Burke revived those who fainted and gave emergency treatment to the others who suffered from the shock brought on by excitement and shakeup.

Home Is Made Hospital.

The family of Mr. Coulson, 285 Huron avenue, cared for four. The Stebbins family, living at No. 151 Appleton street, treated two in the house. One of the prostrated girls was carried into the home of James H. Fairclough, No. 19 Vassal lane, Cambridge.

The car was one which leaves Harvard square every week day to carry the girl employes to the Hood works at Watertown. Jacks were used in lifting it back to the rails, after which it was carried to the car barn.

CRIPPEN IS SOUGHT ON BOSTON SHIPS

When the Allan line steamer Numidian, from Glasgow, docked at noon to-day she was boarded by police inspectors from Pemberton square headquarters, who searched the vessel in their hunt for Dr. Crippen, the London dentist who is wanted on the charge of murdering Belle Elmore, his wife. The inspectors were also looking for Ethel Leneve, a young English girl, who, it is believed, fled with Crippen.

The Boston police inspectors acted at the request of the United States government which has been asked by Great Britain to scrutinize the passengers of every vessel coming here from England and from ports in other European countries where the murder suspect might have fled.

All Passengers Detained.

Search of the vessel and close scrutiny of every person aboard the Numidian was so thorough that the passengers were detained quite a long time on the ship before they were allowed to land.

Cables received to-day form London say that Scotland Yard received information indicating that Dr. Crippen and Miss Leneve sailed from England on the liner Kroonland. The Kroonland is now due at New York and New York police inspectors have gone down the bay in tugs to board and search the vessel. The London cable said that the Scotland Yard detectives had heard that the fugitives embarked on the Kroonland at Dover Saturday night, June 9. This is the day that Dr. Crippen disappeared.

Wireless Aids Search.

The New York officers have searched several in-coming vessels from England, but so far no persons to whom the least suspicion could be directed have been found.

Wireless messages have been sent departing vessels from England and incomparting ships here to their captains asking them to make searches for Dr. Crippen and Miss Leneve.

Scotland Yard has been notified by the French police that Crippen and Miss Leneve landed at Dieppe on Friday and took the train for Paris. Whether the Paris police have any trace of them since then is not known.

Dr. Crippen is believed by the police of Montreal to be hiding in that city. Stewards of the steamship Megantic to-day identified a protograph of Dr. Crippen as that of a man who arrived there yesterday on their vessel.

CIRCUS LIONS IN A RUNAWAY DURING PARADE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 18.—Six terrified horses, drawing a circus wagon loaded with lions, and running wild through the busiest thoroughfare of the city today created intense excitement until brought to a halt by the courageous driver.

The six horses drawing a wagon containing a clown band of ten pieces, and four lions, became frightened when the team was at the crest of Pine street hill. Despite the efforts of the driver to quiet the affrighted animals the team dashed through the section of horsewomen immediately preceding it in the parade.

The lions roared and the terrified crowd scattered in all directions. With all the strength he could summon the driver guided his team as near the centre of the street as possible. The cries of the frightened lions were taken up by the whole menagerie.

The horses were halted a mile away from the starting point of the mad dash. One woman circus rider was thrown from her horse while swerving to escape being run down, but was unhurt.

TAFT OFF ON CRUISE, AFTER A GOLF GAME

BEVERLY, July 18.—Although the President's yacht Mayflower left this afternoon with the presidential party for a ten-days' trip along the Maine coast, President Taft was not so busy in preparation to-day that he could not find time to play a match at golf with John Hays Hammond at Myopia.

After luncheon he met Senators Burton and Dick of Ohio and Wade Ellis, chairman of the Ohio Republican State Committee, for a conference on the political situation in that State.

The party on the trip will include President and Mrs. Taft, Charlie Taft, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Winthrop and Mrs. Winthrop, the President's brother, Horace Taft; Mrs. Lewis Moore, Mrs. Taft's sister; Secretary Norton, Miss Mabel Boardman of Manchester; Captain Butt, the President's aide; and James A. Sloan of the Secret Service.

The Itinerary.

Tuesday arrive Eastport, Me., at 2 p. m. President goes ashore here for one hour and delivers a short address.

Wednesday arrives at Bar Harbor. Leave Bar Harbor for Ellsworth.

Saturday arrive at Ellsworth. Entertained at the home of Senator Hale. In the afternoon President Taft will take a special train for Bangor, where he will speak in the evening. Returning to Ellsworth he will spend the night with Senator Hale.

Sunday leave Ellsworth for Ilesboro. Leave Ilesboro for Rockland.

Speech in Rocklano.

Monday en route for Rockland.

Tuesday arrive Rockland in the morning. Automobile trip through ancient city. Afternoon address by President Taft. Leave Rockland for Biddeford Pool.

Wednesday arrive Biddeford Pool, where Mrs. More will be landed at her Summer home in that place. The Mayflower will then turn south for Beverly Cove, arriving the next day.

BORROWED MAN'S SUIT TO HUNT HUSBAND

WAPATO, Wash., July 18.—The young bride, Mrs. Kirkendall, who was in North Yakima recently searching for her husband, to whom she had been wedded but a few months, and who left her to search for work, has located her missing spouse on an Indian ranch. The young woman created considerable comment by appearing in men's attire. She claims her personal wearing apparel was not fit to appear on the streets, so she did the next best thing by borrowing a suit of men's clothing.

MERCHANT IS HELD ON ARSON CHARGE

Fred Merchant of No. 34 Union street, Salem, was to-day held in $10,000 by the Chelsea Court for a hearing tomorrow on a charge of arson. Merchant was arrested in connection with the fire early on May 25 in the unoccupied tenement house in the rear of No. 276 Second street, Chelsea, which did $5,000 damage to that building and $1,000 damage to a dwelling opposite. Several persons were rescued by the police.

URGE BOARD TO VISIT SCHOOLS

As one result of the recent legislative investigation of the Lyman School at Westboro, resulting from the suicide of John Newman of Cambridge, District Assembly No. 30, Knights of Labor, Incorporated, has declared in the form of a resolution that Governor Draper should appoint a commission of citizens to visit without notice to the officials, all State reformatory and correctional institutions for boys and girls, and to make public from time to time the condition of such schools as they actually exist. The Knights of Labor believe that this plan would do away with corporal punishment of boys and girls in reform schools.

The resolution was adopted at the convention held in Clyde Hall.

Superintendent of Streets Rourke was indorsed in another resolution for his stand for day labor in the city department and against the extension of the contract system.

100 GOLFERS IN ESSEX TOURNEY

The most important golf event of the week's schedule is the open tournament for amateurs at the Essex County Club, Manchester-by-the-Sea, to be played Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Following so closely on the heels of the open championship, this event attracts considerable attention. It is almost a certainty that there will be at least 100 players in it, and there is every possibility that this figure will be exceeded somewhat.

The program calls for an 18-hole qualification on Thursday, with match play rounds on the remaining days. Those having the sixteen best scores will qualify for play without handicap in the chief divisions. In the other divisions the players will be handicapped. More than the ordinary amount of interest attaches to the meeting because of the excellent play of the amateurs in the recent championship meeting.

More especially than anyone else John G. Anderson comes in for an unusual amount of praise, and also enters into speculation as a medal possibility in the qualification. Anderson led the field of professionals and amateurs, with nine holes to go Thursday, and only lost by three strokes to one of the most remarkable players in the world, P. W. Whittemore, the Country Club amateur, who played his last two rounds in 74. T. G. Stevenson had a 79 and H. H. Wilder and A. J. Lockwood both scored well in the open.

HORSE LOSES WARRIOR RIDER

Policemen in the South End are searching for a missing trooper. They do not know who they are searching for but they have good reason to suspect that something has happened to one of the men of the State militia.

Some children found a handsome black horse weighing 1,100 pounds with the trappings of a cavalry man. The horse was wandering through the South End apparently searching for his master when the children found him. They delivered him to Dillon's stables on West Dedham street, where he now awaits his owner.

D. A. R. HEAD WILL SEEK OFFICE AGAIN

NEW YORK, July 18.—Mrs. Donald McLean has announced the candidacy of Mrs. Mary E. Scott, president-general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, to succeed herself.

"I am glad to make this announcement," said Mrs. McLean, "in view of the rumors that I was to run for the office owing to strained relations between Mrs. Scott and myself. Such rumors are absurd. Mrs. Scott and I are the best of friends and I shall work for her re-election."

Mrs. McLean laughed at the references that have been made to Mrs. Scott's age by the opposition.

CHARMER VICTIM OF PET PYTHON

NEW YORK, July 18.—A great crowd witnessing the art of Atena Periden, in Coney Island Music Hall, was startled when the snake charmer gave a scream and tried to release herself from the coils of a ten-foot snake. The reptile which she was handling had wound itself about her right arm and repeatedly shot its fangs into the middle finger. Dr. Topinsky of the Coney Island Hospital was called. He sent the woman to her home. The snake is said to be a young python, whose bite, while severe and painful, is not deadly if treated in time.

YOUNG BLOOD NEED OF ARMY, SAYS WOOD

As long as a standing army is required in this country and the laws provide for the maintenance of such an army it should be a young, active and aggressive army.

As it exists to-day it may be described as an army of veterans. When such is the case there is danger of loss of enthusiasm. The soldier who has seen from five to twenty-five years of service does not accept instructions as readily as the recruit. — Major-General Leonard Wood, in statement at New York.

TO-DAY'S CABLE NEWS

Up to Midnight, London Time

Automobile and Sky Corps Will Battle.

BERLIN—The fighting powers of the armored automobile and of the airship, the latest two departures in the art of war, will be tested at the German army manoeuvres this Fall. An outline of the plans was announced to-day. Aeroplane reconnoitring and shell dropping by dirigibles will be tried out and a battle between an automobile and the sky corps is expected. Autos as commissary transports will be tried out also. The concentration of machines near Danzig is already under way. Most of the aeroplane manoeuvres will probably take place at night, and it is believed that foreign military attaches will be barred.

Famous Archaeologist Drowned.

PARIS—General de Beylie, commanding the French troops in Cochin China, and Dr. Roufflandis have been drowned by the upsetting of a boat on the Mekong River. General de Beylie was a distinguished author and archaeologist. He was best known for his archaeological discoveries in Burma and Mesopotamia, where he met American scientific missions from the Smithsonian Institution, which was much interested in his work.

Charles M. Fay, 61, married and living at No. 60 Moreland street, Roxbury, was found dead at 7:15 A. M. in the bushes on Honeysuckle hill, Washington Park, off Dale street, Roxbury, with a bullet wound in his head. Associate Medical Examiner Waters was called.

FIVE MEMBERS OF OWLS ARE OUSTED

Five members of the Massachusetts Nest of the Order of Owls, were expelled at a meeting held in Deacon Hall.

For one of the five, Michael J. Coyle, ex-Representative from Brighton and former treasurer of the nest, a capias is in the hands of Deputy Sheriff Peter P. Fee, requiring Coyle to appear before Judge Fessenden in the Equity Court and explain why he has refused to turn over to his successor $2,200 of the sick and death benefit money he received as treasurer of the nest.

The four expelled members are Michael S. Drew, chairman of the auditing committee, which examined the treasurer's books; Matthew Cavanaugh, Timothy McCarthy and Thomas Coffey.

EMBEZZLER BEGINS HIS TERM IN JAIL

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., July 18.—Herbert B. Lanyon of Stamford has been brought to the County jail here by his attorney, Russell Clark, and surrendered to Sheriff Hawley to begin serving a fifteen-months' term for embezzlement. The sentence was imposed in the Superior Court last Winter and upheld last week by a decision of the Court of Errors. Recently he had been in jail awaiting trial on a charge of libelling Norman Talcott, a reporter of the Greenwich News.

ESCAPED LUNATIC WALKS 400 MILES

IOWA CITY, Ia., July 18.—Philip McDermott, who escaped from the asylum at Independence, was recaptured here and has been sent back. He made a thrilling escape, descending from a second story by means of an improvised ladder made of towels and bedding. After he fled from the asylum he walked nearly 400 miles during the three weeks preceding his arrival here.

FLAMES GREET HOME RETURN

When Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Clause returned to their home, No. 110 Pleasant street, Dorchester, after several hours sojourn at the seashore, they discovered that the house was filled with smoke. The department was called and the blaze put out after a $300 damage was done.

MEMBER FROM 2D LOUISIANA IS DEAD

NEW ORLEANS, July, 18—Congressman Samuel L. Gilmore who represented the second Louisiana district, died suddenly to-day. Mr. Gilmore, who was born in New Orleans, fifty-one years ago, was elected to Congress in 1909 to fill a vacancy caused by the death of R. C. Davey.

FATHER IS COMPLAINANT.

William McCullough of No. 260 Dorchester avenue, South Boston, was sentenced to three months in the House of Correction to-day, charged with beating his father, Joseph. According to the evidence, the defendant started an argument with his father and struck him in the face several times. McCullough appealed and was held in $200.

STATE SOLDIERS BEHIND GUNS IN THE HARBOR

will be made up of every government tug and smaller vessel that can be culled from the government's force around the harbor. From Massachusetts Bay, the invading flotilla will attempt to sneak into Boston harbor at some unknown hour Friday night.

No vessel in the fleet will be lighted. Everything will be done in the dark. Searchlights will play for hours from every fort down the line. A ship caught in the electric glow and the booming of a projectile-less thirteen-incher will mean that the boat has been sunk, that is, technically. Experts will be on the spot to tell whether or not the ship was within range. If not, the vessel escapes, until it is caught.

The corps boys to-day boasted they would have the invaders blocked out of Boston Harbor as effectually as the American battleships and cruisers had Cervera's fleet bottled up in Santiago Harbor.

Regular Oficers Overseer Work.

Colonel Patterson's staff of regular officers is overseeing the work done this week by the volunteers. This includes firing at targets, day and night. This gives the militiamen a chance to learn the methods of range-finding in use in the coast artillery, and also how to handle the big guns.

The real work started early to-day. After the regular routine camp duty the forenoon was spent at the guns in battery drill. Instruction was given to enlisted specialists, and there was a lecture by a regular officer at each fort. The same program was repeated this afternoon. To-night the corps will be put through the night drill, which will give the volunteers a good idea of what they must do to bag the enemy Friday night.

Soldiers of the Second Infantry, M. V. M., spent a busy day at South Framingham, where they are encamped for the week. Drills were held continuously from 7:45 a. m. until noon. The school for commissioned officers was held from 2 to 3 o'clock and for non-coms from 3:05 until 4 o'clock this afternoon.

At East Boxford the Second Corps Cadets, M. V. M., put in a good day's work. Much regret is expressed at the retirement of Lieutenant-Colonel John E. Spencer, commander of the Second Corps Cadets, who has rounded out thirty years of service. At a farewell supper Colonel Spencer announced he would retire the end of this year from the command of the corps.

To-day was extended order work day. To-morrow will be veterans' and city government day. On Thursday Governor Draper and staff will visit the camp and review the corps.

ADVERTISERS IN 3-DAYS' SESSION

OMAHA, Neb., July 18.—The Associated Advertising Clubs of America opened a three days' convention in this city to-day. The meeting is one of the largest in the history of the organization. Delegates from every State in the Union are in attendance.

"Outdoor Advertising," "Successes and Failures in Advertising," and addresses on "City Advertising" will be among the talks given. Newspaper publishers, as well as active advertising men are among the speakers.

A. G. SPALDING OUT TO BE A SENATOR

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 18.—At the eleventh hour A. G. Spalding, the sporting goods man, filed his application as a candidate for the United States Senate. Mr. Spalding went to the Point Loma theosophist colony at San Diego because his wife wanted to be near Katherine Tingley, the Purple Mother of the theosophist brotherhood.

GARMENT MAKERS' TIE-UP COMPLETE

NEW YORK, July 1.—The tie up of the garment manufacturing industry through the strike of 85,000 members of the garment makers' union has become so complete that individual manufacturers to-day are trying to hire strike-breakers. A number of firms have arranged to install cots in their factories so that the strike-breakers may work without the necessity of leaving the buildings.

SEEK $10,000 FOR CANADIAN FIRE VICTIMS

In a letter to the Boston committee in charge of the raising of relief funds to and the Campbellton fire sufferers, Samuel J. Gilbey of Everett endorses the plan "for every provincial born subject to show his love for the people and the land of his nativity," to send $1 to the Federal Trust Company who will forward the fund to the proper authorities.

Plans are drawn to-day to cover the city thoroughly to get funds, clothing and food to send the sufferers at a meeting of the Relief Committee appointed by Mayor Fitzgerald.

At a meeting of the International Club it was announced that $500 had been pledged for the fund. The subscriptions sent to the Trust Company will, it is expected, bring the total up to the $5,000 mark that has been pledged by the Mayor. It is to be hoped that another $5,000 will be raised within a few days to aid the sufferers.

CHURCH EMPTY WHEN PASTOR APOLOGIZES

ROCKFORD, Ill., July 18.—The Rev. Clyde S. Kuhn, pastor of the Cherry Valley Methodist Church, made an apology for an alleged breach of church law, in causing the arrest of Gilbert Traveller, former Sunday school superintendent, on the charge of assault.

The congregation is with the pastor and believes the apology written by members of the Rock River conference, was influenced by Dr. A. D. Traveller, the Rockford district superintendent and the grandfather of young Traveller.

Members remained away rather than humiliate the pastor by listening to what they consider an unwarranted apology, and the preacher talked to empty seats.

RUNAWAY GIRLS HIDE IN MELROSE

Dora Miller, fifteen, and Bertha Cram, sixteen, of North Berwick, Me., started for Boston. Shortly after their departure their absence was noted by their parents and word was sent to Boston to detain them on their arrival. They were found in Melrose, detained over night, and word sent to their homes.

UTICA, N. Y., BANK CASHIER CAUGHT

PHILADELPHIA, July 18.—J. Howard Lowery, a bank teller, who disappeared from Utica, N. Y., and was later charged with embezzling $115,000 from the Utica National Bank, was captured in Philadelphia to-day.

SEARCH FOR WIFE SLAYER IN FRANCE

whose murder Dr. H. H. Crippen is being sought the world over. John Nash, a theatrical manager, said that he noticed the Leneve woman wearing Belle Elmore's jewels after the latter had supposedly gone to California. Afterward he was told that Mrs. Crippen had died in California. In New York, said Nash, he saw Mrs. Fred Ginnett, who wired to Los Angeles in investigation of the story.

"I saw Crippen in his office on June 28," said Nash. "He sobbed bitterly and told me that Belle Elmore had died in a little town near San Francisco."

Mr. Nash declared that he had questioned Crippen closely as to the exact place of death and other details, but received only unsatisfactory details.

"I went to Scotland Yard immediately," he said, "and asked immediate action. Inspector Dew, chief of detectives at Scotland Yard, took the stand and told of his visit to Crippen's office after Nash had reported the case.

"Crippen said to me," testified the inspector, 'I supose I'd better tell the truth.' Then he made a long statement declaring that as far as he knew his wife wasn't dead. He admitted, however, that all the stories he had told were not true.

"'My wife left me,' he said, 'vowing that she'd never see me again.'"

Told of Discovering the Body.

He mentioned the name of the man he thought she would be likely to elope with.

"I also visited Hilldrop Crescent Monday and found that Dr. Crippen and Miss Leneve had disappeared Saturday."

The inspector then told of the discovery of the body in quicklime under the floor of the cellar.

"It was headless and without hands, feet or bones," he said. "We also found string and fragments of a handkerchief, possibly used in strangulating the victim."

Police Surgeon Marshall took the stand merely to say that he was unprepared.

"Can you state definitely whether the remains found belonged to a female?" asked the coroner.

"Professor Pepper is examining the remains; he can probably explain the cause of death," answered Dr. Marshall.

The inquest was adjourned till August 15.

Disguised as Woman in France.

Crippen speaks French like a native. He is familiar with France, even to its out-of-the-way places. There is a theory that Crippen has some one shielding him in London, as a registered letter addressed to him was signed for, apparently by him, early on Friday at the King's Way post office.

That Crippen has escaped in woman's garb is believed by those who know him well. Miss Adele Harrison, an acquaintance, has told the police that upon one occasion, at least, Crippen dressed as a woman to amuse his friends. She says his slight figure carried out the illusion to perfection.

Walter Leneve, the father of the young woman who is with Crippen, is also of the opinion that the man escaped in female disguise. He says he thinks he will be found disguised as an old woman because of his effeminate mannerisms.

Mrs. Benstead, an aunt of Miss Leneve, refuses to believe that the young woman is with Crippen with any knowledge that a crime has been committed. She insists that she must be held to him by fear if she is aware of any crime, and that she is virtually a prisoner through fear and threats. She insists the young woman was always kind and generous, and was always referred to as the "dear little soul" and there was nothing vain about her.

Hires

Means Health and Purity

Two questions alone are vital in the use of any beverage—Is it pure? Is it healthful?

The ingredients used in the manufacture of Hires are personally selected by its inventor, every one possessing a known health value. Many of them could be had at less than half their cost, but they would be less than half as good. The flavor—by which you judge—would be there, but the quality—by which we judge—would not.

Hires could not be made in cleaner vessels by cleaner methods—the tanks are glass-lined, the pipes are solid block tin, the water distilled and the workmen are clean—all under the constant supervision of a practical chemist—a graduate and formerly a professor in one of our foremost technical colleges.

Hires is pre-eminent in healthfulness and purity. It aids digestion and relieves indigestion. Without a trace of false stimulants or irritants such as soap bark, etc.

But don't ask for rootbeer—ask for Hires and thus be sure to get the only genuine *root*beer.

5¢ the glass at any fountain, Or in bottles, carbonated.

Insist upon the genuine syrup.

50,000 TROOPS OUT FOR GREAT FRENCH STRIKE

PARIS, July 18.—Fifty thousand troops were to-day rushed by special train to every strategic railroad point in France, following the authorization of a general railroad strike by the National Railroaders' Union central committee.

Desertions from the railroads' ranks at many places were reported to-day. The general strike will involve 100,000 men.

Every mile of railroad will be protected as far as possible, the government profiting by the night attacks made during the telegraphers' strike. Special trains provided with searchlights will be run over the exposed lines at night.

Minor clashes were reported within a few hours of the final action by the labor men here late last night. It is believed on all sides that the strike will prove one of the worst in the history of the republic.

A special meeting of several cabinet officers was called to-day by Premier Briand, who as Minister of the Interior, has the situation in his hands.

President Fallieres is deeply interested in the situation and has requested that he be kept informed of every development, and every decision by the authorities.

Prefect Lepine of the Paris police to-day took unusual precautions to get the entire force in readiness for trouble.

The general strike call is the outcome of the labor difficulties on several of France's most important roads in the last few months.

Socialist parliamentary leaders conferred to-day preparatory to taking up the situation from an extreme radical standpoint in the Chamber of Deputies and the Senate.

Of France's 40,000,000 population more than 850,000 are conected directly with the transportation system. Not less than 1,000,000 persons are affected immediately by a general railroad strike.

The railroads aggregate more than 25,000 miles, built by the government. Six great companies operate parts of the total network, while the big western system is run by the government itself.

ROME DIGNITARY AT MEMORIAL

The spectacle of a solemn high mass being celebrated at 7 o'clock in the morning with the superior-general of the Order of Redemptorists as celebrant, assisted by leading members of that community, was the principal feature at the Mission Church, Roxbury, memorial service.

The occasion marked the first visit ever made to this country by the Very Rev. Patrick Murray, who although only forty-two years old, is superior-general of the order, with headquarters in Rome.

MOSQUITOES MAKE SAWMILLS STOP

LAKE CHARLES, La., July 18.—Lake Charles has been suffering from the worst mosquito plague known in twenty-five years. The mosquitoes are brought up from the marshes by strong south winds and hinder outdoor work, operations being practically suspended at some of the sawmills because of their presence. Live stock is suffering greatly, and travel in the country is practically impossible.

MAGNOLIA GOES AGROUND AGAIN

YOKOHAMA, July 18.—The Pacific Mail steamer Magnolia, from Hongkong to San Francisco, which ran ashore off Shimoda and was refloated without damage, has gone aground again.

BABY TILTS CHAIR; KILLED.

BOSTON GIRL, EXPERT SKIPPER, MAY SAIL FOR THE QUINCY CUP

MISS MAY LORING AND YACHT "WOLF"

In the races for the Quincy challenge cup that start next Saturday in Hull Bay a Boston society woman may play an important part.

Miss May Loring, one of the best skippers of sonder boats to be found around Marblehead, has been runing up the sonder boat Wolfe, owned by her brother, Caleb Loring, during the past few weeks in the club races and has come off victorious in a number of them.

The Wolf will be one of the challengers for the Quincy cup, which is to be defended by the Boston Yacht Club, and Miss Loring is more than likely to be aboard the boat when the starting gun is fired.

The Manchester, Eastern, Corinthian, Quincy, Hingham and Sippican clubs have challenged for the cup and the Boston club will have to fight hard to keep the coveted trophy another year.

C. P. Curtis and his fast sonder boat Ellen, which did so well last year, has been picked up by the Boston club to defend the cup. The Quincy cup races are among the premier yachting events of the Summer and Hull Bay will be the scene of lively times from next Saturday until the races.

The Sippican Club of Marion, on the Cape, is the first Buzzard's Bay club to challenge for the cup and is determined to get the trophy down on the Cape for a while. Guy Lowell has had his New York designed sonder Cima picked to represent the Manchester club, and C. D. Mower of New York, the designer, may be one of the Cima's crew.

MEAT PACKERS GO ON STAND

CHICAGO, July 18.—The Federal Grand Jury began taking testimony to-day in the secret beef investigation with a view to indicting officials of the packing companies. Ralph Crews, chief counsel for the National Packing Company at their last trial was scheduled to be the first witness. Charles F. Dewoody, special assistant to Attorney General Wickersham, has been endeavoring to find several of the witnesses. It is learned that some are in Europe and efforts to subpoena them so far have been unavailing.

FIREWORKS END CHURCH FEAST

As a climax to the three days' celebration of the feast of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, held by the members of the Society Maria Santissima Del Carmene (Most Holy Mary of Carmel), a band concert and fireworks will be given by the organization at the North End Park, Commercial street, this evening, commencing at 8 o'clock. The celebration began Saturday night with a parade through the principal streets of the North End.

Each year it is the custom of the society to honor Our Lady of Mount Carmel and the Italian population of the city lends assistance. The feast was originally instituted in the last half of the fourteenth century, as the principal feast day of the Carmelite monks, and in 1726 it was a feast of the entire church. The "Our Lady," of course, refers to the Virgin Mary and her being designated of "Mount Carmel" is merely following a convention much in vogue during the middle ages.

BURIED HIS SHADOW TO SETTLE WAGER

WILKESBARRE, Pa., July 18.—Having agreed to bury his shadow if he lost the bet, Barney Gegen, of Georgetown, made the effort to pay the wager. With a party of friends he went to a field and then announced that he had no shadow at night. His friends lighted lanterns and created one. Gegen then dug a trench so that the outline of his body was within it and then filled it.

GOT HIS HEALTH BACK BY FASTING

GRAND JUNCTION, Col., July 18.—Sent to Colorado as a last resort, William Herbert has recovered his health, simply by abstaining from food twenty-six days. Herbert is a former manufacturer of Newark, N. J. After suffering for years from chronic rheumatism he was ordered to the mountains, and he sold out his business and come here a month ago.

FIREMEN LASSO COMRADE IN RUINS

SHENANDOAH, Pa., July 18.—When the roof of a burning building collapsed at Raven Run, Michael Barrett, a volunteer fireman, went down with it and would have been burned to death had not his fellow fire fighters lassoed him out. He sustained a compound fracture of the ribs, lacerations of the head and face, and it is feared internal injuries.

CAT BRINGS UP BROOD OF ROBINS

MARINETTE, Wis., July 18.—A cat on the farm of Fred Schmetto is bringing up two young robins with her litter of kittens. The fledglings were found there one morning and the cat was caressing them. It is believed that she killed the parent bird and then took the little ones out of the nest and brought them to the box in which her kittens are stored.

CANNON WILL KEEP RIGHT ON TALKING

WINFIELD, Kan., July 18.—Notwithstanding he was overcome by the heat while delivering a Chautauqua address here, Joseph G. Cannon, Speaker of the House of Representatives, asserts he is feeling as vigorous as ever, and against the advice of friends, begins a series of political speeches in the Fourth Kansas Congressional District.

OFFICERS FROM ARGENTINE TO STUDY U. S. ARMY

NEW YORK, July 18.—Twenty officers of the army of the Argentine Republic are coming to the United States army.

This is one consequence of the official visit of Major-General Ward, announced in orders as chief of staff, but not yet relieved from the command of the Department of the East, to the centennial celebration of the independence of the southermost nation protected by the Monroe Doctrine.

The significance of this was not alluded to by General Wood, but from other sources it had been learned that the circumstance was important, as Germans, who have been frequently reported as unsympathetic toward the United States regarding European ambitions in this hemisphere are now instructors of the Argentine army and next to England hold the largest share of the Argentine trade.

It is said that definite progress will now be made as a result of General Wood's mission, with Secretary Root's purpose to knit the South American countries in closer pattern with the destiny of the United States.

General Wood goes to Washington to day to make an oral report preliminary to an official report.

LATE WANDERERS SING IN REVIVAL

Men coming out of saloons, night wanderers of the street and other derelicts formed part of attendance of fifty men at the second in the series of midnight revival meetings in the West End Mission at No. 292 Cambridge street.

Charles H. Manley, superintendent of the Mission, was the chief speaker. Superintendent Reed of the Hope Mission addressed the men briefly. Mrs. Manley played the piano accompaniment for "Where Is My Wandering Boy To-night."

MALDEN EX-POLICE HEAD IS DYING

Samuel L. Emerton, for many years at the head of the police department of Malden, is dying at his Summer home in Pemaquid, Me., where he has lived for the last few years. Chief Emerton is seventy-four years old. He was for twenty-six years chief of police of Everett, and eight years chief of police of Malden.

LABOR

Public wash houses for housewives, where they can do their weekly washings under better conditions than exist in their own homes, are urged by the Boston Central Labor Union in a resolution adopted by unanimous vote at its Wells Memorial Hall meeting. Michael A. Murphy, William H. O'Brien and Henry Abrahams of the C. L. U. executive committee have been delegated to petition Mayor Fitzgerald to consider the feasibility of establishing such institutions in this city.

The C. L. U. also protested against the employment of imported machinist strike-breakers on the boat being built for the infirmary institutions department of the city of Boston, while citizen machinists are on strike at the shipyard.

The new wage scale of the Barbers' Union, which goes into effect August 1, and which more than one-half the boss barbers of this city already have signified their intention of paying, was also endorsed.

That the boss cloakmakers of New York, where 80,000 garment workers are on strike, have not attempted to send any work to this city in an attempt to break the strike and that the probabilities of the trouble spreading to Boston are very remote, is reported by the local officials of the men's union. The Boston locals have voted to institute a strike here if their employers attempt to do work for the New York manufacturers.

Without a dissenting voice, the delegates of District Assembly No. 30, Knights of Labor, original, turned down the proposition wherein they were asked to amalgamate with the K. of L. incorporated assembly of the same number. They voted not to parade on Labor Day this year.

The Standard Oil Company, under pressure from the men's union, has granted the eight-hour day to the forty boilermakers employed on the construction of a big tank in East Boston. Cheers greeted President John J. Minton's announcement of this concession.

John J. Fenton of the Coal Teamsters' Union has ben selected as the marshal of the Teamsters' Joint District Council Division of the Labor Day parade. Mr. Fenton is vice-president of the council, and Harry P. Jennings, its President, will be chief of staff of the parade, having been appointed to that position by Michael A. Murphy, chief marshal and president of the C. L. U.

Boston Photo Engravers' Union takes final action on the calling of a strike in the shops refusing to pay its new and higher wage scale at a meeting in Elks' Hall, Hayward place, to-night. Only three or four shops are reported as refusing to pay the new rate.

Still another new union, formed by carriage smiths, is being organized in this city, the project having the endorsement and being carried forward by Blacksmith's Union No. 209.

Informal announcement that Representative William H. O'Brien of Ward 16, the vice-president of the Central Labor Union, is a candidate for the State Senate from his district, was made at a number of trade union meetings yesterday, and to-day a number of prominent labor men say he undoubtedly will have the united support of organized labor in his fight for the place.

Charles Caleb, business agent of General Teamster's Union No. 379, has resigned because of illness. His resignation was reluctantly accepted, and resolutions of sympathy adopted. D. J. Heffernan and J. J. McQueeney have been elected to serve as business agents until the regular election is held.

J. A. Murray of San Francisco, national organizer of the Cement and Asphalt Workers' Union and who was in Boston for four weeks assisting to build up the local organization of that craft, has been presented a meerschaum smoking set as a mark of appreciation for his work while in this city. More than 100 new members have been admitted into the Boston local during his stay here.

The new union of ladies' garment cutters will meet for permanent organization and election of officers at K. of H. Hall, No. 730 Washington street, Thursday night. William Gitlin of this city, international vice-president of the general union and now in New York on business connected with the big strike, is expected to be present and install the officers.

GIRL SWIMMER WILL TRY FOR A NEW RECORD

Following her record swim from Nahant to the State Bath House at Revere, Miss Annie Morecroft will soon attempt to go over the same course and return in order to equal the record of Miss Elsie Ackroyd of East Boston.

Miss Morecroft, who is fifteen years old, lives at No. 22 Green street, Revere. Although she has been swimming only two years, she yesterday lowered the record for women swimmers over the course named, and beat her own previous record by fifteen minutes.

She covered the course, which is about four and one-half miles, in two hours and ten minutes. Members of the Volunteer Life Savers of Revere, who also swam the course, finished five minutes ahead of her, but they landed at a slightly shorter distance.

Miss Morecroft's only preparation for the swim was a thorough rubbing with olive oil to keep her warm. For nourishment she chewed gum. She was accompanied by her brothers Charles and George.

"In swimming from Nahant to Revere Beach I used the old English trudgeon stroke the entire distance," said Miss Moreseropt. "I was not a bit tired when I finished. After I have made a study of the Lynn channel and have done a little training I shall try to swim from Revere to Nahant and return. From my two swims over the course on way, I have no doubt that I shall be able to go the double distance."

MAN PUSHED BY A BARBER DEAD

LOWELL, July 18.—Edward White, whose head was injured by striking a curbstone a week ago to-night, died at 6:15 a. m. in St. John's Hospital. The police will charge John F. Costelo, a barber, who lives in Dracut, with manslaughter. Costello had been arrested, charged with assault and battery, and is out on $700 bail. Costello says he was walking with his wife near Market and Central streets when White approached. Costello says an insulting remark was made by the man and that he pushed White, who fell to the street.

An autopsy was performed to-day to ascertain the cause of death, which is thought to have resuted from hemorrhage of the brain.

SINGER'S LIFE IS REVEALED BY SUIT

MILAN, Italy, July 18.—All efforts have failed to arrange privately the semi-marital and pecuniary difficulties betwen Enrico Caruso and Mme. Ada Giachetti, who was known for some years as Mme. Caruso.

Mme. Giachetti finally has entered suit against the famous tenor and another suit against Signora Carlotta Carignani.

Extraordinary revelations are anticipated should the suit come to trial. The general opinion is that Caruso would have done wisely if he had settled the the matter out of court. It is said that the famous tenor has reduced to almost nothing his allowance of $1,000 a month he made to Mme. Gaichetti. She is taking care of the youngest child by her union with with Caruso. He is providing for the two other children.

BLESSING OF POPE FOR ALL AVIATORS

WILMINGTON, Del., July 18.—Bishop Monaghan of the Catholic diocese of Wilmington, which embraces the Delaware, Maryland and Virginia Peninsula, said there was no inhibition by the Catholic Church of airships. "The article in the Catholic Universe," he continued, "is an expression of the views of the editor, not of the church. The Pope recently authorized a special formula for the blessing of airships. Of course, that includes all aviators."

THUGS BEAT MAN WITH RUBBER HOSE

SOUTH BRAINTREE, July 18.—Elmer E. Dyer, a business man of this place, was assaulted while on his way home by two men, one of whom had a piece of hose such as is used for airbrake purposes. He hit Mr. Dyer on the back of the head. Just then an electric car came along and the man who assaulted Mr. Dyer got away. Robbery, it is believed, was the motive of the attack.

GAVE CAT CREDIT FOR SAVING FAMILY

YORK, Pa., July 18.—Members of the family of Howard Kilgore gave their pet cat a fitting burial because of their belief that by acting as a conductor of lightning their lives were saved. A bolt of lightning hit the Kilgore house. Mrs. Kilgore was stunned, but the others did not suffer. Later some one glanced under the stove and found the cat stretched there dead.

MOB WRECKS TRAIN; TWO FATALLY SHOT

CHICAGO, July 18.—T. E. Mulvihill and Patrick Haley were possibly fatally shot and several other men were seriously injured and a ten-coach excursion train was wrecked by a mob during a riot at Columbia park on the Santa Fe Railroad west of here.

PLAN TO REDUCE SOUTH IN HOUSE

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 18.—Republican leaders have determined that in the Sixty-third Congress the representation in the House shall not aggregate more than four hundred and ten members. This means that the representation from the South will not be increased. The leaders hope to shape matters so that the Southern strength in the House and in the electoral college will be somewhat reduced when the new census figures are acted upon. They realize, it is said, taat some of the Southern States like Missouri, Texas and Alabama have increased largely in population and will be entitled to increased representation, but what they will gain will be taken, it is said, from other Southern States. It is predicted that Virginia will suffer mainly. This action, the Republican leaders point out, is to be taken because the present size of the House is unwieldy.

KEITH BUYS SIX MORE THEATRES

NEW YORK, July 18.—As the result of a vaudeville deal, George B. Cox acquired a controlling interest in the theatres of Anderson and Zeigler in Cincinnati, Louisville and Indianapolis, thereby becoming a partner of Morris Meyerfeld, Jr., and Martin Beck of the Orpheum circuit and sold nearly half of his interests to B. F. Keith, thereby making Mr. Kieth also a partner of the Orpheum magnates in these Western playhouses.

The theatres in which Mr. Keith assumes a large interest are the Grand Opera House and the Majestic, in Indianapolis; the Mary Anderson and the Hopkins, in Louisville, and the New Columbia and Olympic, in Cincinnati.

NEW RECORD FOR MISSOURI COW

COLUMBUS, Mo., July 18.—With one day to go in the first six months of her year's test of milk production, Josephine has a margin over the world's record for that period of 1,204 pounds, or about 150 gallons. Josephine is the prize cow of the State College of Agriculture and holds the world's record for milk produced for one day, one month and four months, taking all three places from Colante's fourth Johanna of Reisendale, Wis. Josephine produced in one month 2,960 pounds as against the previous world's record of 2,783 pounds. Her record for milk in one day is 110.9 pounds, as against the previous record of 106 pounds.

AIR EXPERTS FORM WAR SKY SERVICE

GRAEFRATH, Rheinish Prussia, July 18.—The Lower Rhine Company, with $500,000 capital for the construction of air cruisers, especially fitted for dropping explosives, has been formed under the auspices of Count Von Moltke. Dirigible balloons will be built about 300 feet in length and having a capacity of 14,300 cubic metres of gas and a carrying power of more than five tons. The framework of the vessels will consist of wooden stays covered with rubber and silk. The central gondola which will be armored, will have a perpendicular shaft for shooting projectiles.

POOR EASTERNERS TO BUY FARMS IN WEST

GREELEY, Col., July 18.—Miss Jane Addams of Hull House, Chicago, Jacob Riis, Rev. Lyman Abbott, W. J. Bryan and others have organized an association to buy large tracts of land near here and cut it up into small farms and garden plots. These they will sell to deserving families in the East who want homes in the West, but are without means. The association will accept payments in instalments, or will take a share of the crops. The scheme will not be entirely philanthropic, but will give the promoters only a moderate profit.

BOSTON WOMAN CAUSES SCENE IN BIG HOTEL

TORONTO, July 18.—Miss Violet Parker, a strikingly beautiful woman, whose home is in Boston, is being held here as an insane person by the police until relatives arrive to care for her. She has been a guest at some of the finest Toronto hotels for the past few weeks, and has entertained lavishly during her stay. She has acted queerly at times, but it was not until she started to disrobe in the palm room of the King Edward hotel that the police were called in.

Since then Miss Parker has been under the observation of the city physicians at the Toronto jail and has been pronounced insane. When arraigned before Magistrate Kingsford she did not seem to realize that she was a prisoner, and asked permission to sit in the spectators' benches and watch the routine of the court's session.

FOIL PICKPOCKETS WHO ATTACK PEDDLER

Two pickpockets who attempted to rob a man on a street car in the heart of the city failed to do so because of a passenger who was awakened by the struggle.

A pedler boarded a car at Washington and Eliot streets. A man followed him. Both rode on the back platform. At Hollis street another man, pretending to be drunk, got aboard at a signal from the man on the steps. They seized the peddler and rapidly searched his pockets. The scuffling awakened a dozing passenger. This man seized one of the crooks. The peddler had lost no money so the man was permitted to make his escape.

PLANNING FOR BIG TEMPERANCE MEET

An important meeting of St. Patrick's Total Abstinence and Literary Society will be held in the rooms, No. 431 Dudley street, this evening. A delegate will be elected to represent the body at the coming convention of the National Catholic Total Abstinence Union, to be held in Boston the week of August 8, and definite action will be taken relative to uniforming the military companies of boys of the parish, which were organized last week.

The organization has sent out an appeal to all former members to rejoin and participate in the parade of the societies of the national body, which will be held in connection with the convention.

REAL OLD SCOUT OFFERS HIS AID TO THE BOYS

Still they come. A great week was the one just ended, a far better one is this, now two days old, for the American Boy Scout and his multiplying friends. From the most unexpected sources come friendly words and offers to assist in this great movement.

W. B. Cooper of No. 21 Warner street, West Somerville, makes the interesting offer to give some of the boys who need it a chance to earn enough money for their uniforms and camp expenses.

Mr. Cooper writes:

"I have been connected with the Boys' Brigade and take a great interest in the American Boy Scout. I will give some of the boys, preferably from Charlestown or West Somerville, a chance to earn their camp expenses and money for their uniforms. If you know of any of the boys who would like this opportunity, send them along."

There's a chance, lads. Get busy some of you ambitious West Somerville and Charlestown boys if you need the money.

Maine Scout Offers Services.

Wellman Y. Taylor, an old Maine guide, who says he had a real, red Indian warrior for his tutor, offers his services to instruct the boys in woodcraft, tracking game and similar features. Mr. Taylor is now a deputy fish and game warden, and has served in the militia.

"I hope to see the American Boy Scout grow big and lusty as he deserves to be," he said. "No country must be allowed to lead us in such a wonderful movement. Let the American Boy Scout be a true son of his Uncle Sam—the finest Scout in all this world."

Cheering words, laddies. Keep right on sending in your applications. If you have no time to call for the necessary blanks write to the New England Headquarters, No. 5 Bromfield street, and get them.

What To Do Now.

If this newspaper were twice as big, letters like these, enough to fill it and sent in every mail to the American Boy Scout might be used. But it is unnecessary to stir the boys up more. They are already stirred as never before.

It is now a matter of sorting out the thousands of applicants, organizing their patrols, finding them drill masters and then placing all under the New England Citizens' Committee soon to be completed.

Some of the boys who have sent in their applications are beginning to ask impatiently what they must do now.

One of the very best things you can do, now, boys and do that right away, is to go to the nearest branch of your public library and read everything that they have on scouting.

Ask them to give you General Baden-Powell's book, "Scouting for Boys." If they say they have not got it insist that they DO get it.

For just as sure as fate there will be a great demand for this book from now on. Get it, read it. If you have your patrol pretty well in hand and no drill master has been found for you by Secretary Gordon, start right in yourselves practicing as General Baden-Powell tells you.

See Sample Uniforms.

The magazines are beginning to print reams and columns about the American Boy Scout. Get Collier's for August and there you will find two dandy big pages about the American Boy Scout and his English chum with fine pictures.

Your drill masters will be named soon and then with a little preliminary work of organization for each patrol you will be ready for your uniforms. These will be ready this week and the place of sale will be announced. In the meantime if you call at the New England Headquarters, you may examine the sample uniform there. Come along lads. Join the parade.

BE A SCOUT.

THE BRITISH BOY SCOUTS.

By MARCUS WOODWARD.

When out scouting in the country, the boys practice woodcraft. Woodcraft!—the very word is all romance, all charm, and fascination. It means tracking animals and birds, watching them, studying them, and killing them, if need be, for food. It means the power of reading small signs, finding clews, weaving a romance or a tragedy out of a footmark or a stray feather. A scout ideal is that a Scout, when with other people, always is the first to see anything, big or little, near or far, high or low.

Scouts are trained campaigners—they can live comfortably in the open—putting up tents or huts, lighting fires, killing and cooking their own food.

Every Scout a Cowboy.

Camping is the greatest feature of the training. In Summer, even in Winter, Scouts go into camp, roughing it like backwoodsmen, exploring country, playing games, cruising in boats, swimming, tracking, turning themselves, for the time being, with the best intent and in the most orderly and decent way in the world, into perfect pirates and buccaneers, cowboys, and Red Indians.

At night they learn to find their way about as well as by day; they are not afraid of dark woods or lonely roads. When the sun sets, the moon or the stars give them their direction.

They grow weatherwise. Every Scout is taught how to read the signs of the weather. "Yellow sunset means wind;" "Soft clouds, fine weather;" Red at night shepherd's delight." Sayings of this sort are safely stored in the Scout's mind.

At the seaside or on lakes they go forth on sea-scouting practice—rowing, steering, and sailing boats, knotting and splicing, building and caulking, sewing sails, climbing aloft and chanting nautical songs.

They signal by flag, also by whistles and by signal-fires and flare-signals. Three big puffs of smoke mean to the Scout "Go on!" A continuous flare of flame at night means "Halt!" A succession of short and long blasts on a whistle mean "Alarm," "Look out," and "Be prepared."

Dispatch-running gives fine training. The Scout must take a dispatch from headquarters to some place four or five miles distant, and his fellows must catch him—if they can. He goes disguised, and must travel very warily if he is to get safely through with his message, when the sharp eyes of Scouts are searching everywhere for him.

To sum up, in the Chief Scout's words:

"The whole object of our scheme is to seize the boy's character in its red-hot stage of enthusiasm, and to weld it into the right shape, and to encourage and develop its individuality, so that the boy may become a good man and a valuable citizen for our country."

Tracking by smell has become a feature of night scouting among some clever patrols. A handkerchief sprinkled with eucalyptus is hidden in the middle of a field, and two parties of Scouts start from opposite sides to find it. When this game was first tried, one party made the mistake of trusting rather to their eyes than to their noses—the other, more cunning, worked down to the side of the field towards which the wind was blowing, and soon struck the scent, finding the handkerchief within twenty minutes.

A night test of hearing and sight and judging distance is carried out in this way: One Scout is sent alone across fields in the dark, until he hears his leader's whistle, when he shows a light from a lantern for five seconds. Then he stands fast, while the rest of the Scouts estimate the distance, and the locality of the lantern-bearer. After this, each sets off for the place where he thought the light was shown.

Write to George H. Gordon, Secretary American Boy Scout, New England Headquarters, No. 5 Bromfield street, Boston, for full information.

(To be Continued To-morrow.)

LUDLOW STRIKE SENDS TAXES UP

LUDLOW, July 18.—The assessors have announced the tax rate for the coming year to be $19.40 on the thousand, against $13.70 for 1909. This is the highest rate in the history of the town.

The vital cause of the increase in the tax rate was the cost of maintaining extra policemen during the strike of employes of the Ludlow Manufacturing Association last Winter, $8,960.25 being spent for that purpose.

HAD BEAN IN EAR TWENTY YEARS

OFFICE BOYS IN WALL STREET ROBBERY PLOT

NEW YORK, July 18.—State Comptroller Clark Williams has issued a statement in which he reveals the inner details of a conspiracy of one thousand Wall street office boys, stamp dealers and runners, who last year defrauded the State out of $2,000,000 in stolen stock transfer stamps. Confessions from a number of boys indicate that the thieves worked under the very noses of the most reputable brokers and bankers in the field.

The lads made as much as $18 a day disposing of new or cancelled stamps. Some of the stamp dealers have become independently rich. Even junk dealers were made a part of the system, and from them cancelled stamps were purchased in vast quantities to be used over again.

In their passion for the quick wealth to be obtained through stamps some of the stamp dealers even hired burglars to raid brokers' offices at night in order to obtain the cancelled stamps in the waste baskets.

The importance of this revenue will be appreciated says Comptroller Williams when it is understood that during the last fiscal years taxes amounting to $5,355,546 were collected from the sale and transfer of stock. The department was aware that through improper practices considerable revenue was being lost but not until a thorough investigation had been made was the enormity of these frauds apparent. It was estimated that the State was losing $2,000,000 a year.

WIDOW'S "WANT" IS HELD NOT "NEED"

NEW YORK, July 18.—Claiming that $6,000 in interest from the estate of her late husband, William P. Coffin, is being withheld from her by executors and trustees, Mrs. Anna P. Coffin of Newark, has begun suit in the court of chancery for a judicial interpretation of the word "want" as it appeared in her late husband's will. One clause in the will directs that Mrs. Coffin, during life be paid "such sums as she may want or require for comfortable support and maintenance." Mrs. Coffin declares the interest belongs to her because she "wants" it. They maintain that the word "want" in the will means only what in their opinion they think she needs.

PLAN UNION OF ALL CHARITIES

NEW YORK, July 18.—The Christian Unity foundation, incorporated at Albany to-day, is a society patterned after the Sage foundation, purposing to place at the service of Christianity the same methods employed by the Sage and similar research foundations.

Its aim is to bring about an organic union of the Christians of all the world—Protestant, Eastern Catholic, Roman Catholic, everybody, everywhere.

Twenty-four American Episcopalians, all of them residents of this city, are responsible for the launching of this big religious trust which shall sink all names and creeds into one great religious body.

DOCTOR BARES DEATH MYSTERY

FITCHBURG, July 18.—Mystery surrounds the death of Mrs. Clementine Richards, wife of Rosario Richards, who was found dead at her home at No. 60 Albee street. Associate Medical Examiner A. H. Pierce and Dr. H. R. Nye performed an autopsy. Relatives of the woman said that she was addicted to the use of "headache powders."

Dr. Pierce, who was first called, said that he found bruises on the face and body. He says he also found what he believes to be traces of poison on the bed clothing.

FIND PREHISTORIC REPTILE IN MINE

ST. CHARLES, Mich., July 18.—Workmen in mine No. 2 of the Robert Gage Mining Company have found what is supposed to be the skeleton of a prehistoric reptile, similar to a water lizard. The bones were found imbedded in the rock 225 feet below the surface, and appear to be those of a saurian about ten feet in length.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKETS; FINANCIAL NEWS

STATE ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

Buying in the market now represents, in part, a real accumulation, together with purchases for the purpose of support. Small investment also is a feature.

No danger exists that speculation will be expanded for some time yet, because the banks will not permit anything of the sort. They have drawn the lines closely already and will draw them closer still should such a proceeding be deemed necessary.

Raids made upon the market position are not always the works of the bears. Often, of course, the design is to uncover stop-loss orders and facilitate the retirement of short contracts, but the object frequently is to further the buying of securities. Large speculators take one side or the other, for the purpose of accomplishing their ends, and they are not particular sometimes as to the means they employ.

$ $ $

The business situation, while still discouraging so far as volume of operations and question of profits are concerned, is favorable in that the conditions which are temporarily adverse are likely to clear the atmosphere, and result in a readjustment that is bound to strengthen the foundations and make for general confidence.

$ $ $

Although State Street gossip concerning the steel business has been anything but favorable, the industry, based upon specifications and earnings, is not in an unsound condition by any means. The slump in the stock market over the last several months and the pessimism accompanying it has not been followed by demoralization.

$ $ $

Advices from abroad that Europe was ready to send all the gold likely to be needed here is another factor tending to the better feeling. In some of the banking offices it was said that from $30,000,000 to $50,000,000 might be sent. Money is easy abroad and the same may be said of it in New York, except for over the end of the year.

Crop news, taken as a whole, is not at all discouraging. The only fault to be found is with Spring wheat, and even that is not as bad as has been reported. The agricultural yield will total many hundreds of millions of dollars greater than in 1909, the only weak spot being that there will not be much wheat for export. The deficiency, however, will be made up in manufactured products.

What cotton will do remains something of a mystery. The bulls in this commodity maintain that high prices are to continue, but this remains to be seen. The report of the Department of Agriculture on August 2 will tell us more about this crop than is known now.

The Pennsylvania trouble and the postponement by the Interstate Commerce Commission for four months of the advance in freight rates that was to have gone into effect on the first of next month are taken quietly, producing little or no commotion.

In the fiscal year just closed, the Missouri Pacific system, including the Iron Mountain and the Central Branch, earned a surplus of approximately $3,100,000 after all charges, taxes, and rentals. This is equal to 3.6 per cent. on the $83,251,000 capital stock outstanding on June 30, 1910. In 1909 the surplus reported amounted to $1,064,000, or 1.33 per cent. on the $79,753,985 outstanding on June 30.

Reports of national banks under the recent call as they come to hand daily, although somewhat mixed, on the whole continue to make a showing of fortified reserves as compared with the state of affairs last Spring.

$ $ $

Some disappointment has been manifested by the bull element because the market has not responded more readily to favorable influences, but then the fact that the market had a bad smash not many days ago should be taken into consideration.

$ $ $

What buying has been indulged in has been conducted in a conservative manner with a view either to following prices up, or, as the case may be, make further purchases lower down. Taking too eager advantage of seeming bargains sometimes is not so profitable as the exercise of a little patience.

The old Harriman following is reported as more than ordinarily bullish now and it is taking Union Pacific freely at the present level. Sources that were exceedingly bearish on this security down to 160 have been giving out very bullish reports in the last day or two, these being to the effect that it will not be long ere the stock is selling at 175 again. It will not be selling ex-dividend for some time yet.

Bulls in Reading have great hopes of the near future because the buying of the issue is better than it has been for some weeks, while the short interest shows no signs of diminishing. Between the two, those who are interested in Reading have an idea that it ought not be a difficult matter to put it above 160 again. Philadelphia continues to take the stock in rather large quantity.

Traders have come to the conclusion that it is better to be long than short of Atchison, as the probabilities are strongly in favor of a rise of 10 points or so at least. It was driven down below 92 when the big scare was on, but the street is not expecting that it will sag much under its present price from this time on. Many investors who sold at around 120 are coming in once more.

The West has boasted, about this season, for several years that it would take care of its crop necessities without Wall street help. Each crop-moving season, however, has brought the usual demand on the New York banks, notwithstanding earlier talk from Western centres. This year is no exception.

MISS WRIGHT DEAD.

ROME, July 18.—Miss Philura Wright of Boston is dead here.

Nearly everybody in Boston reads the AMERICAN.

WEAKNESS IN N. Y. CENTRAL

NEW YORK, July 18.—The stock market opened to-day with a rather brisk demand for securities, which sent up prices generally from ¼ to ½ points above Saturday's closing. The buoyancy of the market, however, was only a commission house buoyancy, and when the initial demand was once supplied prices fell away about one point and most of the gains were wiped out.

With the yielding of prices, the briskness of the opening sagged and interest became slack. The slight selling movement was without stamina and prices became irregular. At the opening, New York Central showed some weakness, declining while the rest of the list advanced. It fell off ⅝ points.

Another exception to the general trend was People's Gas, which rose 1⅛ points, showing an individual strength that the rest of the list lacked. Reading, after opening up ½ point, yielded about 1 point when the reaction set in and led the rest of the list downward. Reading was followed closely by St. Paul and Union Pacific. The industrials ranged slightly higher at the opening, but also slumped with the railroad shares. The curb market opened steady with prices little changed from Saturday's closing. London reported about $3,000,000 engaged for export to New York.

TO ARBITRATE STRIKE.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., July 18.—The 1,500 striking section hands of the Delaware & Hudson Railroad agreed to-day to submit their wage demands to arbitration as desired by the company.

CHARTER TRAINS TO RUSH COTTON TO NEW YORK

NEW ORLEANS, July 18.—In an effort to get New Orleans spot cotton to New York in time to fill July contracts, thus ship space here and at Galveston has been cial trains, it was announced to-day, have been chartered from the Illinois Central and the New York Central railroads by local cotton interests.

The first train load with 3,000 bales left early this morning. The next train will follow without delay.

The announcement created great excitement both in railroad and cotton circles, as it is the first time in the history of the cotton business that trains have been chartered to carry cotton to any market.

They will be rushed through to New York as a guarantee of a ninety-six-hour schedule, the same time as that made by the fast fruit express trains which carry bananas to New York from this port.

The arrangements for express train service was the last resort of the cotton shippers, as there seemed to be no other means of getting it to New York in time to catch the market. For the past week all steam-making a clear profit of $4 per bale, spegobbled up by cotton men as fast as it was offered.

TEXAS WOMEN USE PISTOLS HANDILY

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., July 18.—Three women of this city have shown almost deadly accuracy with revolvers. Miss Bertha Obert began by killing her negro washwoman, who had overlooked returning a dressing sacque; Mrs. M. Raven took aim at and punctured a negro whom she found in proximity to her chicken coop, and Mrs. Henrietta Franck has laid low her husband, with whom she had some disagreement over certain property rights.

Mrs. Franck, immediately after the shooting, called up police headquarters and informed the sergeant that she had "tried to kill" her husband. But though she may have tried hard she failed, for all she did was to knock off two of his digits. With an infuriated woman standing over him with an "elephant killer," Franck believed it safest to "play dead."

This accounts for the woman's telephone message and the fact that her husband was not injured more than he is.

PENNSYLVANIA MEN HUNT MONKEYS

YORK, Pa., July 18.—Two pet monkeys belonging to Reinecker Herr, a liveryman, gained freedom by gnawing holes in a large box in which they were kept and took refuge in trees in the neighborhood. When chased they leaped from one tree to another, breaking many small limbs. All efforts to recapture them were in vain and owners of several of the trees threaten to kill the monkeys if any further damage is done.

U. S. TO GUARD SHIPPING IN NICARAGUA

WASHINGTON, July 18.—The State Department will probably notify all nations to-day of protection by this Government of their mercantile and shipping interests against Madriz in Nicaragua. This action will be taken at the instance of the Bluefields Steamship Company of New Orleans, which complains it cannot conduct its commerce in Norwegian vessels because the Norwegian Government has recognized Madriz's proclamation declaring Bluefields closed. Norway is expected to withdraw her recognition of the proclamation.

The United States has never recognized the blockade, and has warned the Madriz party in Nicaragua against damage to A[illegible] property by the Venus which is being used to enforce the alleged blockade at Bluefields. An American cruiser is there to enforce the warning.

It is the opinion of the State Department officials that Norway will request this Government to look after the property interests of her citizens at Bluefields and in Nicaragua. Following such a request this Government will give notice to Madriz, and the blockade, until recognized by this Government, will become ineffectual and fall.

Consul Moffatt at Bluefields, telegraphed that he knows of no yellow fever at the Bluff, but that there is considerable sickness among the Madriz troops at that point. Sanitary conditions are so imperfect that the Consul has requested General Estrada to take every precaution as to communication between the Bluff and Bluefields.

The State Department is in possession of no late information concerning the condition of William Pittman and Dr. Blengheim, Americans held prisoners by Madriz. Consuls Olivares and Moffatt have these men under observation and any move the Madriz faction may take concerning them will be reported promptly.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, July 18.—William P. Pittman, the American engineer who was captured by the Madriz forces near Bluefields and brought here, is now confined in a commodious cell.

When Pittman arrived under escort a few days ago he was placed in a dirty cell less than six feet square.

Against this treatment Consul Olivares entered a vigorous protest at the instance of the American Government and the prisoner was transferred to better quarters.

Pittman's new cell is shared by two other prisoners, one of whom is a Jamaican negro. Learning of this, the Consul requested that the Jamaican be placed in another compartment, and President Madriz issued orders to this effect. Pittman asked, however, that the Jamaican be allowed to remain in view of the fact that they had shared other misfortune together.

POLES CELEBRATE GRUNWALD VICTORY

The biggest Polish parade ever held in New England and one of the most enthusiastic meetings ever held in Faneuil Hall, took place when the Polish people of Massachusetts celebrated the five hundredth anniversary of the battle of Grunwald.

Nearly 10,000 crowded into the Locust street park in South Boston to receive the blessing of Bishop Rode of Chicago, and then fully 5,000 men and women swung into a parade that carried them over onto Commonwealth avenue, where the procession halted long enough for a committee to place a massive wreath of flowers on the equestrian statue of George Washington in the Public Garden. Mayor Arthur Howard of Salem was a guest and speaker at the Faneuil Hall gathering.

MAN IS HELD FOR BILLIARD CUE DEATH

Michael Colombo of No. 549 High street, Dedham, was arraigned in the Dedham District Court to-day, before Judge Grover, on a charge of murder, following the death of Raffaello Ferrari from the effects of a blow with a billiard cue. Colombo pleaded not guilty. At the request of Assistant District Attorney Frederick Katzman, a continuance was granted until July 28. Colombo's cousin, also named Michael Colombo, had an argument with Ferrari. The prisoner, hearing the noise while he was playing a game of pool, rushed up, and, it is said, struck Ferrari over the head.

UNLOADING CARGO OF THE WHITNEY

The steamship James H. Whitney is being overhauled at Central Wharf to-day after the fire which last Friday forced her to put into Vineyard Haven harbor. The damaged cotton is being rapidly unloaded as it is feared that sparks may still be concealed in some of the heavy bales.

City fire officials and Underwriters' Agent Dillaway are supervising the inspection of the vessel. The interior of the vessel was but slightly damaged, but many of the cotton bales and bags of wool were ruined.

REAL ESTATE FIGURES SHOW BIG INCREASE

Statistics of realty dealings last week show a good increase over those of the corresponding weeks of last year and 1908, this being true of transfers, mortgages and the amount of mortgages. The files of the Boston Real Estate Exchange show the following entries of record at the Suffolk registry of deeds for the week ending July 16:

	1910	1909	1908
No. of transfers...	475	412	435
No. of mortg's...	218	191	180
Amt. of mortg's...	$1,441,417	[illegible]56,224	$746,131

The following table, also compiled by the Boston Real Estate Exchange gives each day's transactions for the week beginning July 11 and ending July 16:

	Sales.	Mortgages.	Amount of mortgages.
July 11	74	37	107,786
July 12	82	34	340,394
July 13	99	46	211,228
July 14	63	32	588,305
July 15	95	39	137,600
July 16	62	30	55,996
Total	475	218	$1,441,417

Among the sales reported to-day was that of the property at Nos. 68-70 St. Germain street, corner of Dalton street, Back Bay, comprising a five-story brick building and 3,000 square feet of land, which has been sold by David Shikes to Matthew H. Cushing, the title passing through Charles J. Scheffreen. This property is taxed for a total of $51,000, of which $19,500 is on the land.

In Dorchester the octagon-front brick apartment house and 2778 square feet of land at No. 614 Dudley street, opposite Howard avenue, have been purchased by Abbie B. Jamieson et al from Charles A. Eaton. It is assessed for a total of $12,200, of which $2,800 is on the land.

In the same suburb the property at No. 48 Spencer street, near Park street, comprising a frame dwelling and 4455 square feet of land, all taxed for $4900, have been sold by Edward T. Young et al to Martin O. Johnson. The land is rated for $900.

In Brighton a frame house and 4,000 square feet of land, all assessed for $3300, on Brentwood street, near Athol street, have been purchased by Florence D. London by Samuel N. Davenport et al. The land is rated for $800.

Thomas C. McEnaney has sold for Thomas S. Moore his two apartments brick dwelling house at No. 32 Havre street, East Boston. This house is situated near the corner of Maverick street and contains eleven rooms and has an area of 1800 square feet of land. The property is all assessed for $3000. The terms of sale were private. The purchaser, Alfonso Scafeo, buys for investment.

CHAMPION JIMMY LEE IN BIG SCOTCH GAMES

Jimmy Lee, the former B. A. A. Marathon champion, claims the long-distance professional running championship. The blond champion's defeat of such well-known runners as Lungstrom, Johanson, Crowley and Homer puts him in line for such title. "I have met all these champions," states Lee, "and have defeated them in their special distances and now stand prepared to race any or all for any amount or a side bet." Since Lee has joined the "pro" ranks he has shown speed that he was never thought to possess. He has competed in various contests throughout New York State, Canada and Philadelphia, and has always been right with the money. Lee is entered in the twelve-mile special race for the championship at the coming Scotch games at Caledonian Grove August 6, and as nearly all the above champions are entered in this race, it should settle for all time who is entitled to the championship.

CASHIER TUFTS HELD FOR FEDERAL JURY

George W. Tufts, former cashier of the Rockport National Bank of Rockport, who is accused of misapplication of the bank's funds, waived examination when he appeared before United States Commissioner Hayes to-day. Tufts was ordered held for the Federal Grand Jury, which sits the third Tuesday in September.

The amount of the bail bond required was reduced from $15,000 to $5,000, owing to the fact that examination of the bank's books proved the shortage was much less than at first suspected. It is likely the shortage will be under $3,000.

AIR CRAFT NO PERIL TO SUBMARINES

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., July 18.—Discussing the effectiveness of airships in future naval warfare, Simon Lake, president of the Lake Torpedo Company, said:

"Unless some shrewd Yankee invents some effective means of disposing of these perfected aircraft, surface boats may be endangered, but I believe the fleet of submarines now being assembled by this country will be immune from any such danger. I do not think any aeronaut or aviator will be able to destroy or even locate a submarine."

ISSUE ORDERS TO "CRUSH BRYAN"

OMAHA, Neb., July 18.—"Crush William J. Bryan," is the word which has gone out from the Democratic leaders to all counties of the state where conventions have not been held. Not a single Bryan man is to be placed on delegations, regardless of the instructions given the delegations by the county conventions. Bryan is not to be placed upon a committee.

MRS. DUKE GETS BUSINESS BLOCK

DURHAM, N. C., July 18.—Brodie L. Duke, millionaire tobacco magnate, has given, it is said, to his bride of a few weeks a handsome business building now nearing completion in the business centre of the city. For the first time since his mariage in Camden, N. J., about six weeks ago, Mr. Duke and his bride visited their home town to-day.

PLAN TEST OF CRACKER CONES

Inspectors from the Boston Health Department visited many of the local resorts where ice cream is sold in cones and took samples of the various cones for the purpose of analysis by the department to ascertain if the pure food law is being violated. Should this prove to be the case seizure and prosecution is expected to follow, as Dr. Durgin, chairman of the board, has given the subject attention for some time past.

$5,000,000 DAMAGE TO KENTUCKY CROPS

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 18.—More than $5,000,000 damage has been done to the tobacco, wheat and corn crops in Kentucky by the floods and storms, according to reports received to-day. It is believed that the loss of life in the mountain regions will be found larger than expected, the present death list including two persons, who were killed when lightning struck a church in Paris.

BOSTON ARTIST STUDENT DEAD

MARBLEHEAD, July 18.—James Rogers Rich, sixty-three, of Boston, a landscape artist, is dead at the New Fountain Inn, where he had been stopping for a few weeks.

Rich, though an artist of ability, has not been known to the world of art as an exhibitor for many years. In fact, though painting was a profession with Mr. Rich, he was never obliged to practice it for a living, as he was a wealthy man

DELMAS DOTES ON DAINTY TIES

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18.—Delphin Michael Delmas, the California attorney who won fame in the fiasco of the first Thaw trial and who subsequently remained in New York, to practice law, has returned here to spend the months of August and September. Mr. Delmas brought eighty-five neckties with him from New York. The fad of the eminent barrister lies in neckties.

SOCIETY GIRL TAKES GOVERNMENT LAND

MARTINS FERRY, O., July 18.—Laura Westwood, daughter of former Mayor Samuel Westwood, went West in June to visit her brothers, and the parents got word that she had taken up a government claim eighteen miles from Deadwood, S. D., and will make that her home, working the claim herself. Her decision to live alone in a new country after a society life has caused a sensation here.

BRIDE OF FORTNIGHT FILES DIVORCE PLEA

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., July 18.—Mrs. William Horseley has filed suit for divorce against former Sheriff Horseley. He was a recent candidate for Mayor and is known as "Big Bill." The couple were married two weeks ago. She asks $10,000 alimony. On the arrival at home after the marriage in Chicago, his long-time housekeeper denied them admission. Horsely had her arrested.

John D. Rockefeller's Prayer, Plea for Sweetness and Light

CLEVELAND, July 18.—In his address before the Bible class of the Euclid Avenue Baptist Church yesterday, John D. Rockefeller quoted the following as his ideal of a daily prayer:

Our Father, who art ever with us, help us this day to reveal Thee through our common tasks, our relations with one another, in our homes and at our work, that men may know and love Thee better. This is thy most beautiful world. May we not mar its glory by our selfishness, but by the gentleness and sweetness of our lives make it more beautiful. May we this day not add to another's burden or care or pain. But may we, by our words and deeds, sweeten and brighten and strengthen the lives of those whom we meet. For Thy goodness and mercy to us, for the opportunity of service, for love and sympathy, we thank Thee, and pray that our devotion to Thy truth may reveal the thankfulness of our hearts.

DON'T MISTAKE CATCHALL CAN FOR MAIL BOX

As an aid in keeping the streets of the congested districts free from rubbish and loose papers, a large number of the new so-called "catchall cans" are being placed in position by the Sanitary division of the Boston Street Cleaning Department. The experiment is being made at the suggestion of Mayor Fitzgerald and, if the boxes prove their worth they will be installed in all parts of the city.

The "catchall can" is shaped like the postal newspaper and package boxes. It is attached to a pole four feet high and bears the sign: "Put rubbish here. Throwing rubbish in the street is a misdemeanor and punishable by a fine of $20."

City officials are loud in their praise of the new can. They say it fills a much needed want.

"We expect to have the catchall can installed in every street in the congested sections of the city within a month," said Deputy Superintendent George H. Foss of the Sanitary division. "The ones we intend installing in the market district will be much larger than those in the crowded residental sections. The cans are proving beneficial and are in keeping with the ideas of Mayor Fitzgerald who wants a cleaner Boston."

The "catchall can," secured by a lock cannot be opened by other than city employees. The cans are emptied twice a day.

LAWYERS' ANNUAL SESSION OPENS

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., July 18.—Members from all parts of the country arrived here during to-day by train and automobile to attend the annual convention of the Commercial Law League of America, which opened here to-day.

HAYES SEEKS SECOND PLACE UNDER FOSS

SPRINGFIELD, July 18.—In a statement ex-Mayor William F. Hayes made it known that Democratic friends in the western part of the State are working to have him placed on the State Democratic ticket this Fall as a candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, with Eugene N. Foss at the head of the ticket, and that he would accept such nomination provided there is no contest.

The ex-Mayor and Senator denied emphatically that he has exerted the least influence in his own behalf and said he has not yet been consulted by any of the State leaders.

Following is his statement:

"If the party wants me in second place on the ticket I feel that it is my duty to accept the nomination but I shall not engage in any contest, as my business and my domestic affairs will not permit it.

"I can see how the best interests of the Democratic party could be served by placing me on the ticket as Lieutenant-Governor with Vahey in first place. Mr. Vahey is one of my warmest personal friends and if he is given the place at the head of the ticket I will heartily support him.

"If Mr. Foss is placed at the head of the ticket, I would gladly accept the second place, provided I would not be carried into a contest."

THREE ESCAPE IN AUTOMOBILE WRECK

PRINCETON, July 18.—Although an automobile in which they were riding turned a somersault and then landed in the road bottom side up while going at a fast clip, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Seymour and their son, Roscoe, of Hudson, escaped uninjured. They were thrown to the ground with considerable force.

By DYKE CLARK.

Do we or don't we. Thats the baseball situation to-day. The Red Sox have the chance to go into second place by beating the league champions, the Detroit Tigers, who are on their way here not to arrive till after the noon hour as they played a game in their own town yesterday.

After the long journey and then a jump into their ball togs the team should be easy picking for the fast Red Sox who have had a nice rest since the Saturday game with the White Sox and are feeling pretty good after that clean-up.

Each team has won four games from the other but the improvement has all been on the side of the Red Sox. The jungle men have hit the toboggan since they invaded the East. The Athletics nearly put them out of business and they have had hard traveling ever since.

But the Tigers are the present champions and therefore are the class of the teams that have visited here since the Red Sox came home and they will naturally be the big attraction for the next four days in which five games will be played, a double-header coming on Tuesday.

Tigers Should Be Easy.

This afternoon the Tigers should be easy picking after their long jaunt from the City of Straits. They had to make a quick jump to get here in time to lineup so too much cannot be expected of them on their first appearance. Unless the Red Sox should fall off in the in play the game looks as good as won.

Over in New York where the fans are much worried by the spurt made by the Red Sox the Yanks have the tail-end Browns to meet, much easier game than they have had for some time. But the low teams have a kick left in them, a case of it coming out when the Browns put one over on the Athletics and played them a marathon game during their series recently.

Another brilliant week like the last one would send the Red Sox stock booming as never before. Winning doubleheaders and beating Ed. Walsh twice is glory enough and a period of excellence surpassed by no team, and it is not surprising that the noise of the big happenings has gone abroad.

Detroit Big Magnet.

Now the situation becomes more intense with the Tigers here. Jennings and his team draw like big magnets because there is not a team in the league that carries a bigger supply of ginger.

The individual competition between the peerless outfielders, Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker, will come in for special inspection.

Ed. Karger has been saved to be the one to greet the Tigers. With their left-hand bunch of batters he should be effective if his arm is working right.

TENNIS STARS MEET IN TOURNEY TODAY

The twentieth annual Longwood singles tournament and the Eastern championship in doubles started this morning on the courts of the Longwood Cricket Club.

The representation that reported to the referee this morning is perhaps the classiest that has ever been seen at the courts. The one noted absentee is the former national champion, William J. Clothier, who has been runner-up and winner of this tourney many times.

Champion Larned will defend the cup this year, and if succesful will be the owner of it, as a win of three times, not necessarily in succession, gives a player the trophy.

The matches in singles will all be the best three out of five advantage sets, and the matches that will be played to-day follow:

FIRST ROUND.

A. Fox vs. T. B. Plimpton.
D. L. Pickman vs. C. G. Plimpton.
R. C. Seaver vs. S. L. Beals.

THROWN OUT OF JOHNSON'S CAR

NEW YORK, July 18.—Flung from Jack Johnson's big automobile when the negro champion turned too sharply into Forty-second street from Eighth avenue, Richard J. Comiskey, who, Johnson said, was his secretary, suffered a serious fracture of the left leg above the knee. Comiskey was taken to Roosevelt Hospital by Johnson in the machine.

At Forty-second street the dusky fighter slewed his steering machine around sharply and almost cut across the curbing as he laid a course toward Broadway.

Comiskey was unprepared for the sudden sharp turn, and as the car tilted he was thrown from his seat to the pavement.

DOVES FIGHT HARD; SHOW GREAT GAIN

The Doves, although still in last place in the fight for the pennant, have shown a great improvement during the past week in all departments of the game, as they have advanced positions in both batting and fielding averages. Boston jumped Brooklyn in club fielding, and is seventh with an average of .233. In the race for this honor New York, Cincinnati and Chicago are tie for first place with averages of .259.

Boston also made a gain of a place in elding, and occupies the same position as n hitting with an average of .957, with ittsburg, Brooklyn and Chicago tied with score of .961.

In batting the real leader of the Na- nal League is Snodgrass of New York, o has played 37 games and has hit a percentage of .361. Of those who played more than 50 games, Paskert Cincinnati, who has been in 66 contests, is first with an average of .344, and closely followed by Byrne, of Pittsburg, who is seven points back. Chief Myers, of New York, who has been in 60 games, is eight with an average of .321, being but three points ahead of Catcher Graham, of the Doves, who has played 67 contests.

Other players of the Doves who are prominent in batting are Beck, who has averaged .278; Shean, .256; Herzog, .260; Miller, .255, and Sharpe, with the same total.

Boston's winning streak in the American League, which has been the feature of the week, has proved that teams can win games by batting and not by fielding, for the team has improved in pushing the ball where the fielders are not, and while they are in second position in batting, are second from the bottom in fielding.

The champion Detroit team leads the league in team batting with an average of .273. Boston is second with .269, and the Philadelphia Athletics, third, with an average of .262. In fielding, Cleveland, which proved a weak opponent during the week for both Red Sox and New York, leads with an average of .966. Detroit is second with .962, and the Athletics third with .961. Boston is seventh with .949, and finished the week by winning more games than opponents and almost making a cleanup.

BOSTON PLAYERS IN CHESS TITLE MATCH

Interstate, masters, club, team and individual contests are included in the program of the midsummer meeting of the New York Chess Association, to be held under the auspices of the Rochester Chess Club, August 22 to 26. The interstate match is between Pennsylvania and New York.

In addition to F. J. Marshall in the Masters' Tournament, America will have three other representatives of the "Haupt" tournament (B) of the German Chess Association. The three players all hail from the vicinity of Boston, and are John L. Clark, one of the players at Harvard University, who played for this country in one of the cable matches against Oxford and Cambridge; Harlow B. Daly of Dorchester, well known in New England chess circles and as a participant in the New York State tournament.

6-CORNERED RACE AT REVERE TRACK

A six-cornered motor paced race will be the feature race at the Revere cycle track Saturday evening, the first of its kind put on a local track in years.

The distance will be twenty-five miles. The men who will face the starter are: Elmer Collins of Lynn, George Wiley of Syracuse, J. Frank Galvin of Hartford, Olie Carmen of New York, Carlo Vanoni of Italy and [illegible] Drobech of South Boston.

DREYFUS PAYS; PIRATES PLAY

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 18.—That the poor playing of the Pittsburg baseball team this year has been due to sulking on the part of the players because of an alleged agreement on bonus last year not having been kept by President Barney Dreyfuss, is the startling allegation made in a Pittsburg paper, owned by A. P. Moore, a stockholder in the club. While officials of the club deny the story, it has caused a great deal of speculation, it apparently being borne out by circumstantial evidence.

The story in short is that Dreyfuss quietly offered the players of last year a large bonus if they won the National League championship and also the world's title. It is claimed that after the world's championship series was over, the bonus promised was not forthcoming. It is said the players sulked bitterly this year and thatt he club owners were given to understand that poor ball would be played and the gate receipts would be small until this promised bonus was paid.

The paper further states that he end came last Monday, when the Pirates were beaten 18 to 0 by Philadelphia. Dreyfuss then threw up his hands and distributed the alleged promised bonus, whereupon the champions buckled down to work and beat the New Yorks four games in a row.

It is now thought that the Pittsburgs will play good ball from this time forth. Even the most skeptical admit that the showing of the champions with the New Yorks in the last four games was the first of their 1909 form shown yet.

CROSS AND HURLEY MIX-UP TO-MORROW

Leach Cross and Battling Hurley, two boxers with big followings, will furnish the main event at Newark to-morrow night. Hurley, with his slam-bang style, ought to prove a hard opponent for Cross.

LAJOIE LEADS 2ND BASEMEN

Lajoie has come into his old title of undisputed king of second basemen. Most base ball players and experts have always called him the greatest player in his position the game has ever known, but a few have professed to believe that Johnny Evers was a greater all-around player. Evers is out of his stride temporarily, or is going back, while Larry is the same old Larry, only a little better than ever before.

His wonderful hitting isn't all there is to Larry's work. He is fielding as well as he ever did, which is just a little better than any other second baseman.

Evers, whose base ball sense made him a strong rival of Larry, hasn't been hitting up to his usual gait, and his fielding has been off color. He makes errors in pinches. Several Cub defeats have been due to Evers' misplays.

Eddie Collins, of whom little has been heard this year, is playing better ball than Evers. His fielding is steadier and his hitting much stronger.

Larry is ambitious to play in every game this season. He was in every inning of every game the Naps played in 1908, and he wants to equal that record.

"LOU" SCHOLES MAY COMPETE IN HENLEY

NEW YORK, July 18.—Three New York oarsmen—Durando Miller of the New York Athletic Club, William Merhoff of the the Nassau Boat Club, and Frederick Shepheard of the Harlem Rowing Club—are candidates for the single scull championship that is to be competed for at the national regatta to be held in Washington, D. C., next month. Miller finished second and Shepheard third in the race last year. The holder of the title, John O'Neil of St. Mary's Athletic Club of Halifax, is to row for the honor again. It is reported that "Lou" Scholes, the Canadian sculler who several years ago won the diamond sculls in England, will also compete.

JEFFRIES MAY BATTLE AGAIN

AVALON, Cal., July 18.—James J. Jeffries, who has just arrived here, spoke more to the point about a second match with Jack Johnson than he has since July 4. When asked directly if he would fight again, Jeffries said:

"I shall be able to tell better after I have seen what you can do for me at Avalon. I am not saying anything at all; two or three big fish a day may revive my spirits considerably."

JOE COSTER ON CARD TO BOX BIZ MACKEY

Biz Mackey of Cleveland, who has boxed here a few times, will take on Joe Coster of Brooklyn at New York to-morrow night. Coster is a hard, rugged boxer, as his exhibition here with Jimmy Walsh proved, and the Cleveland boy will do well to escape defeat.

NEW WORLD MARK FOR 1,000 YARDS

NEW YORK, July 18.—Melvin W. Sheppard, the great middle-distance runner, added another world's record to his credit in the Brooklyn Clan-na-Gael games at Celtic Park. He won the 1,000-yard handicap in the record time of 2m. 12 2-5s., clipping three-fifths of a second from the mark established twenty-nine years ago by Lon Meyers.

Sheppard started from scratch and gave all his opponents liberal handicaps. At the start they were strung all around the track.

As the pistol cracked Sheppard jumped into his long, easy stride and sprinted after the leaders. One by one in rapid order he passed them, until at the quarter-mile post he was in fourth place and within striking distance of the leader. When he breasted the tape he was eight yards in front.

A few minutes later he sat down and ate a meal that ordinarily would appease the appetite of a longshoreman.

STRAIGHT TIPS
FOR SPORT FANS

JENNINGS AND HIS TIGERS ARE with us to-day. They are a great magnet here at all times, but in the present series they will probably eclipse all records as a big drawing factor. That Detroit bunch is there strong with the ginger stuff and the fans should see some plays during the present engagement of Jennings et al. that will make their little hearts go pit-a-pat. Its going to be a great baseball week in this town. Believe me, baseball history will be written around the games played here this week.

HARDLY A DAY GOES BY BUT what some fan puts this question up to me: "Who do you consider the greatest outfielder, Ty Cobb or Tris Speaker?" Now I'm going to hand that class of information seekers a good, straight tip. If they want an answer let them beat it to the Huntington avenue grounds and see the two stars at work. Then they can draw their own conclusions.

JEFF HAS NOT SAID A WORD YET about wanting another match with Jack Johnson, the Big Smoke, who put him away with such astonishing rapidity, but——. List to this, as it is a dispatch to-day from California, and is in the words of the ex-champ: "I am not saying anything at all. Two or three big fish may revive my spirits considerably." On the surface it looks as if Jeff is just paving the way for an announcement of a challenge. Take it from me, all ye who have a distinct remembrance of that last affair in Reno town, Jeff had better keep on fishing and not stop when he gets two or three of the finny tribe. That fishing bug of his had a lot to do with his poor showing against the negro. If he had only heeded the advice of noted fighters, trainers and critics, and done a little boxing, instead of fishing, he might have been what the people hoped he would prove to be.

CAN YOU BEAT IT? AT LAST I'VE found somebody who likes my job. I didn't think there was such a person in the world outside of a nut factory. He says his name is Elmer Hackett, and that he thinks it would be "divine" looking up questions and answering them for sport fans. Elmer, can that idea. Get in love with a girl. Drink rum. Take a chance with your life in an aeroplane. But crush that budding ambish. It's such a delightful work, you know, that you can change your dress three times a day, take in all of the pink teas, operas and musicales, hold hands with a girl for three hours on a stretch, play tennis every afternoon and do a million and one pleasant things. Elmer, for mercy's sake, tell your Gwendolyn that you have decided to enjoy life.

ACCORDING TO "BONES" LYONS, THE Dr. Reese of the Boston Fire Department team, everything went smooth with his team in their game with the New York Department bunch, although they were defeated. Bones says when they come here in September he will bet his Panama that bte Boston team will win.

> Straight Tips: I have been a reader of your column from the first and I want to give you my opinion of some of the men who are at the top of the tree in the fight game to-day. I know men myself who could give them miles for gameness. Imagine taking for samples Jeffries and Johnson to represent the white and black races. Plenty of fighters never had a glove on and never want to. Only a few men who can't make a living otherwise try to make it in the prize ring. So why should we bother about the money fighters? I have seen men rush up a hill with bullets and shells flying through their ranks, not for $100,000 an hour but for less than fifty cents a day. Would the same man shirk a banging up of any man's fists? No sir. They are the fighters, not your Reno sort.
> If this don't suit, don't put in your column. I will write later about some "proper" fighters, including "Belcher" Jem Ward, "Tom Cribb," Sayers, Mace, Shaw, the life guardsman and a few other "men" not money bugs. And if I don't use the slang that is thrown at you I hope you will not think less of me. As Burns said, "A man's a man for a' that" and though I am not educated like some of your correspondents I enjoy your column which is second to none. I am afraid the Boston American would not be opened as often as it is only for your Tips, in our club in New Bedford. Good luck!

About the first big bout of the Fall season on in New York will be a ten-round tilt between Billy Papke and Stanley Ketchel. Papke is about "through" on the Coast and wants to get another belt at the champion under any old conditions.

* * *

Jimmy Johnson is looking for Stanley Ketchel to match him with Ted Nelson. Johnson thinks that Nelson would give Steve a tough argument, and if the champion is willing, the Fairmont Club will stage the bout.

* * *

Hugh McIntosh, the Australian promoter, who has returned from Reno with Bill Lang, will try hard to get Johnson to go to Australia this Fall and meet the winner of the elimination heavyweight bouts he will stage in that country. Lang will be one of the contestants.

McIntosh never gave Jeffries a chance in the recent fight at Reno, and bet all his ready cash on the colored man, getting most of it down at 10 to 6. The promoter cleaned up enough to pay his expenses over and back.

* * *

The Frisco fans may be just as well satisfied with the short bouts, for the boxers will fight at full speed over the short distance, whereas they invariably loafed in the long fights for fifteen rounds before cutting loose.

* * *

Owen Moran and Ad Wolgast are to meet for a twenty-round bout in Frisco the latter part of August before Coffroth's club, if the officials will allow it, and if not the match will go to Reno, if Rickard wants it. In case both of these places refuse to handle the go, Milwaukee promoters will be asked to take it. Harvey, Moran's manager, writes that he cleaned up $3,000 on the big battle.

Jimmy Johnson is looking for Stanley Ketchel to match him with Ted Nelson. Johnson thinks that Nelson would give Steve a tough argument, and if the champion is willing the Fairmont Club of New York will stage the bout.

HORSE NOTES and SPEEDWAY

Report has it that the speedy pacing gelding Young Chimes, 2:11¼, may become a member of the Metropolitan Driving Club. The club does need to take a brace if it is to win the honors in the intercity matinees.

* * *

Those who have seen Hugh Milam's three-year-old pacer by Directum Miller, 2:05¼, out of Regent's Last, take his work believe that he will be the second of that famous matron's get to enter the 2:10 list this season. Regent's Last, who is also the dam of Reproachless, 2:04½, and Direct Hal, Jr., 2:06½, which won a good race for Geers at Terre Haute on Thursday, is owned by T. H. Phair of Presque Isle, Me.

* * *

Louis S. Gray of Fall River, Mass., one of the best known New England horsemen, thinks the trotter Henry S., Jr., 2:10¾, whom he sold to Edwin Hartley of Fall River, can take into camp Victor C., 2:10¼, the syndicate owned horse of the Metropolitan Driving Club, Boston, recently purchased from the M. H. Reardon farm, Indianapolis.

* * *

Louis Tewhart, chairman of the racing committee of the Dorchester Driving Club, drove Rebecca G., 2:16¼, his bay mare by Infact, dam Clara Simmons, over 1,200 miles during the last Winter and Spring, teaching the lady some manners. Rebecca G. lost the 2:16 trot at Hillsgrove to "Dusty" Rhodes's Nero by the positions in the summary, but went a capital race nevertheless. Hughey Milam of Johnson farm, Ponkapoag, Mass., has Jimmy Carpenter's old pupil going right nicely.

* * *

Walter Cox surely made no mistake in leaving the pacer Thoughtful, 2:15¼, by San Mateo, at home. It looks doubtful if this fellow will stand up under the clip it takes to win in good company.

* * *

Hoosier Prince, 2:07¼, the roan stallion by Cecilian Prince, attracted a great deal of attention upon his return to the twice-arounds. Charlie Cook has not yet got this fellow just right to meet the free-for-all sidewheelers, but he looks as if he might be reckoned with later on.

* * *

Fred Hyde of Charter Oak Park, Hartford, Ct., was mightily pleased with the excellent race trotted at Hillsgrove by the five-year-old black stallion Scientia, by Admiral Dewey, 2:04¾, dam Lucyneer, by Electioneer. This fellow took a mark of 2:19¼, and handled his field very easily.

* * *

The Jonathan Club boys, of Providence, including Jack Orr, Billy Cornill, George Gilland, Nat Baush, Billy Pearson, Henry Potter, T. F. Toomey and Frank McKenna, made the stay of many of the visiting horsemen a very pleasant one.

THORDIS WINS OCEAN RACE

The Wollaston Yacht Club annual ocean race over a course of approximately twenty-four miles in extent, consisting of a run from the clubhouse to Boston Lightship and return, was won by the Thordis, owned by Effie Dowes, in 5h. 49m. 30c.

The summary:

	Time. H. M. S.
Thordis, Effie Dowes	5:49:30

JOHNNY GLOVER TO BOX KID McDONALD

Johnny Glover of South Boston is the principal in one of the best bouts of the week when he meets Kid McDonald of Roslindale at Bangor Saturday night. Glover has made a good impression down East, where he has appeared several times. In McDonald he meets a crafty boxer, who should force the peninsular lad to his limit.

Baseball News and Notes.

Jouett Meekin, the speed merchant, who once set them over hissing hot for the old Senators, was no spendthrift. To-day Jouett is working for about $1.50 a day in a little Indiana town, but it isn't because he squandered all his baseball money. It's because he wouldn't be idle and let his capital diminish, not if he had to work for 29 cents per diem.

When Jouett was with the New York Giants he had a Prince Albert coat that he wore for dress occasions. He had carried that coat around the circuit for many a day, and it was the shiniest piece of cloth that ever any man possessed. One afternoon the players were talking of a masquerade to which they had been invited, and which they wanted really to attend, and the question of costumes, of course, was the topic of the hour. Tim Hurst, the great umpire, was perched among the boys, and was taking an occasional hand in their discussions.

"I think," said Meekin, "that I'll go to the masquerade all right, but I don't know what costume would be best for me. What would you suggest, Mr. Hurst?"

"Well," said Timothy, "why don't you wear that Albert coat of yours and go as a mirror?"

* * *

"Chief" Bender's illness will put quite a burden on Mack's other pitchers, for it is not expected that the Indian will be able to work for ten days or two weeks.

* * *

Foreman, a right-hand pitcher, and Hardy, catcher, have been unconditionally released by the Washington Club. Washington is trying to buy Second Baseman Grimes from St. Louis, but cannot get Manager O'Connor to name a price.

* * *

Bert Daniels, the Yankees' college star, who plays the infield or outfield, looks like a star. He has been hitting, running the bases and fielding in fine form, but better than what he does in his way of doing it. He looks like a natural star of the Cobb and Chase type. He is fast on the bases and slides very much as Cobb does.

* * *

* * *

A baseball organization has been formed in Seattle, Washington, and articles of incorporation have been filed which shows a $300,000 proposition. Japanese baseball promoters are back of the undertaking, the object being to secure professional baseball among the Japanese on the Coast.

Would Jack Doyle, the old Giant player, make a good umpire? He might favor his old team mates and then again he might rub it into them.

* * *

In advertising the Reds when they play at home the announcement reads: "Larry McLean, the Human Giraffe, and Jack Rowan, the Revolving Hippo. Pie for sale at the park and rocks to crack it with."

* * *

Young Webb, the infant wonder of Pittsburg, who looked all to the good when he started, is now getting his bumps and going wild in his control besides.

* * *

Ban Johnson is trying a new stunt, by issuing official American League averages in midseason. The figures up to July 4 show Lajoie leading with a mark of .402, and Cobb second with .379.

* * *

Looks very much as if Hugh Jennings's ambition to have a four-time winner in Detroit has gone glimmering. The Athletics bumped the Tigers again, winning 9 to 3. Had the Philadelphia lads been able to beat the Detroits last year in that style they would have won the penant.

* * *

You certainly have to take off your hat to Bill Dahlen. He has those Dodgers traveling a faster clip than they ever expected to hit and a whole lot faster than anybody else expected to see them travel.

* * *

President Murphy has gone a step farther in his warfare on the obscene rooter and the pop bottle thrower. Yesterday he erected a freshly lettered sign, informing the profane and the pop bottle heavers that they would have an opportunity of riding in a patrol wagon if they persisted.

The Inconsistency of Women

No. 1—CONCERNING MONEY

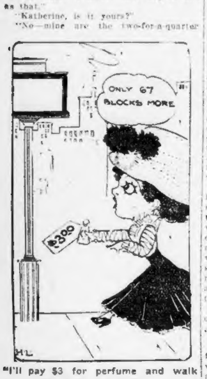
By MABEL HERBERT URNER

"WHO'S handkerchief?" Holding up a dainty bit of lace which she had found under the tea table.

"Not mine. I never have any as nice as that."

"Katherine, is it yours?"

"No—mine are the two-for-a-quarter kind. It's Gertrude Ward's, I think. She always has the loveliest handkerchiefs."



"I'll pay $3 for perfume and walk home to save carfare."

"Gertrude, is this yours?"

A tall, slim girl turned from an animated conversation in the far corner of the room.

"Oh, yes—where did you find it?"

"Here, under the tea table. If I carried real lace handkerchiefs I'd try not to drop them."

"That's my one extravagance," laughingly. "At home they say I spend more on my handkerchiefs than on all the rest of my wardrobe."

Some Pet Extravagance

"That's what they tell me about my shoes—that I pay $10 for my shoes and ten cents for my breakfast."

"Oh, I suppose we're all foolishly extravagant about some one thing and absurdly miserly about some other. My particular weakness is expensive perfumes and toilet articles. I will pay $3 for a bottle of violet extract and then walk home to save carfare!"

"Carfare!" someone laughed. "Oh, that is what I am most miserly about. I always begrudge my carfare—I just can't help it."

"Telephone fees is my bugbear," their hostess confessed. "I will walk blocks trying to find a nickel-in-the-slot machine, rather than pay ten cents at some convenient hotel. And my greatest extravagance is traveling appointments. I have a perfect mania for expensive bags and suit cases and all the little accessories—all sorts of traveling cases for soap, tooth brushes, sponges—oh, I have the most complete traveling equipment! And the ridiculous part of it is that I travel so little! I almost never go anywhere."

"Well, I think Mary Marshall has us all beaten for inconsistency. Have you ever noticed her gloves? I never saw her wear the same pair twice. She has the most wonderful assortment. I don't think she ever goes down town that she doesn't buy at least one pair. And yet she's been wearing that same black hat for two seasons! She says she simply can't spend money on hats—that when she goes to buy a hat she always feels it's a frightful extravagance, and——"

"Ends by buying more gloves?" someone suggested.

"They're Expected to Be"

"Her obsession seems particularly unfortunate! Think how much better she would look if she spent more on millinery and less on gloves. Hat's are such an important part of one's wardrobe. I've never even noticed her gloves, but I've often wondered how much longer she was going to wear that black hat."

"I don't think I have any extravagances," ventured a demure young woman who had been listening with silent interest.

"You haven't? How about those real shell hairpins you bought last week? And yet I remember you said the other day that you did not have a pair of whole stockings to your name, and that you felt you couldn't afford to get any just now."

"Oh, we're all inconsistent about something. But why shouldn't we be? All women are. They're expected to be. It's one of the few privileges allowed them. So why worry about it?"

The Origin of Life

By PROF. CHARLES NORDMANN

(President of the Paris Observatory)

WHEN M. Bergeret declared that organic life is only a vermin crawling on the surface of this sublunar globe, he had just been cruelly hurt in his home life, and many times the metaphysics of the most sage philosophers are optimistic or pessimistic according to their state of mind. So if M. Bergeret, at the moment when he made this pessimistic declaration, had caught sight of the features of Mme. de Gromance, there is no doubt but that he would have excepted at least some mammals.

The truth is that nothing is more worth studying than the problem of life with the many enigmas it offers to consider it, as geology shows it to be, a very unimportant accident in the evolution of the earth, but it is nevertheless exceedingly interesting to try to investigate how it first originated.

Powerful thinkers, from Kant to Lord Kelvin, have declared that the germs of life may have been brought here by aeroliths from some distant world, but how this transmission was carried out remained unknown, and it was besides considered likely that the empty space with its extreme low temperature that prevail between the stars, were an absolute obstruction to the propagation of living beings.

Recent Experiments

Recent experiments, however, have given new impulses to these ideas that recently had hardly emerged from the imposing but vague domains of speculation.

The effect upon a great many bacterias of the empty space and temperatures near the absolute zero we now know is not destructive, but merely tends to preserve them. The cold and the vacuum only serve to suspend animation indefinitely a few hours. When, therefore, they are deposed in some atmosphere after years of wandering through space, they instantly and with all their innate vigor begin their germination. Does not this in many respects remind one of the fairy tale of the Sleeping Beauty in the woods?

The interstellar space is, therefore, a milieu favorable to the transmission of life.

As to the way in which the micro-organism may be transmitted from one world to another, recent discoveries in regard to the action of light permit us to conceive a very simple solution. The sun attracts and holds in its mighty dependence only bodies of very considerable magnitude. When the volume decreases the repulsion, which the solar rays are known to exert, becomes predominant, and this action probably also explains the tails of comets. As for the infinitely small bodies the diameter of which is only a very small fraction of a millimeter, the light of the sun drives them indefinitely into space until they, conglomerated with other cosmic dust, are again attracted by celestrial bodies.

Melancholy spirits see in this some resemblance to what happens in society, where the poor and small are also driven out of the sunshine into cold and darkness, but I do not think that Nature follows the doctrines of Nietzsche in this, for the cause of the phenomenon I have just described is due solely to the electro-magnetic action of light, as the illustrious Maxwell has shown.

It is thus understood how it has always been made possible for life to be transmitted from one solar system to another. It is only necessary that in some distant part of the sky, near Sirius or even further away, there has existed some planet whose atmosphere, like ours, contained micro-organisms. These organisms have then been sent out upon their long lethargic voyage by the action of the rays of the neighboring sun, and it does not seem unreasonable to suppose that the first germ of life has come to our earth in this manner.

The Evolutionists

Is it possible, however, that a simple micro-organism, having found a favorable place to germinate, may end in propagating the rich and varied plant and animal life of the earth? This question the evolutionists unhesitatingly answer in the affirmative.

Everybody knows this astonishing doctrine, the truth of which is proven more clearly every day. Thanks to this theory, it is no longer necessary to believe a separate act of creation necessary for each species, and thanks to it we see how, by simple laws of nature, the simple single cell by a splendid series of steps through centuries evolves into the brain of a Beethoven or a Newton.

The origin of species was surrounded by a darkness so intense that our ignorance peopled it with all kinds of phantoms, until the genius of Lamarck and Darwin illuminated it, and the natural evolution of all living beings became visible in all its harmonious simplicity to everybody. But though all the details of this grand view remained hidden, humanity stood dazzled, overwhelmed by its imposing grandeur.

We have now come to the conclusion that all organisms of the universe originate from one single cell. But how did then this cell originate? In regard to this the spiritolists disagree with the biologists. The latter insist that life is no more independent of matter than the fragrance of a flower of the flower itself. They, therefore, believe that the cell is a molecular structure, which is naturally formed under certain physico-chemical conditions, and they think with the famous Berthelot, that some day we shall be able to produce life in our laboratories.

I do not want to say that the spiritualists are wrong when they insist that there are other forces in existence than the material ones, but the biologists, who are excellent observers, oppose them, and I do not want to contradict anybody.

And since our descendants would never forgive us if we left them a universe denuded of all the charms of mystery, it is just as well to leave some enigmas for them to solve. In time they will know definitely whether the cell is a mere physico-chemical product or not, but when that day comes there will still be a few thousand problems to solve before they will really be able to explain the small phenomenon that we call "Life."

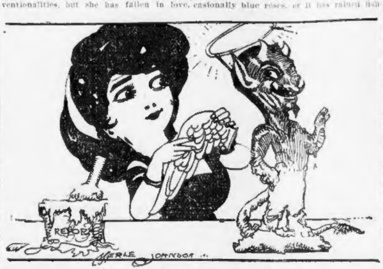
Marrying a Man to Reform Him---By Dorothy Dix

I HAVE received a very interesting letter from a young woman who, left an orphan in her childhood and dependent upon her own exertions for a living, has worked up her way from a cash girl to being a buyer in a big department store. In character this young woman is strong and fine. She's very religious, with strict and rigid ideas about moralities and conventionalities, but she has fallen in love, as so many such women do, with a man who is her direct opposite in every respect.



The idea of reforming a man is a helpless proposition, because the man is such poor material to work on.

He is as bohemian in his tastes as she is puritanical in hers. He is a shiftless ne'er do well, dissipated flighty, improvident. He is everything of which the woman disapproves theoretically, but still she loves him and wants to marry him, and asks me this question.

"When the bad woman can lower a man and lead him like a child, can't a good woman also lead him, perhaps, from self-destruction and hatred for all womankind, to happiness and saner living?" Oh, have you, or any of your thousands of readers, knowing that women marry to reform men, ever heard of one who succeeded?"

Speaking for myself, I will answer emphatically, NO. I have known hundreds of women to marry men to reform them, and in not one single case that has come under my observation has the woman succeeded.

Doubtless there have been men who have been influenced to give up their vices by their wives, just as there have been occasionally blue roses, or it has rained fishes, but these phenomena are freaks of nature, so rare that no woman has any right to expect to see them.

If a man does not act the part of a man for the sake of his own manhood, he is not going to do it for any woman, especially after he is married to her. While the romance and excitement of courtship lasts plenty of men are braced up by the fillip of the situation to appear to temporarily forsake their evil ways, but as soon as they are married, and the novelty has worn off and the strain of matrimony begins to be felt upon their shoulders, ninety-nine men out of a hundred abandon the higher life and descend again into the pit from which some poor deluded woman has believed she could lift them.

Just on its face the idea of reforming a man is the most hopeless proposition that a woman ever tackles, because the man who needs to be reformed furnishes such poor material for her to work on. To make a silk purse out of a sow's ear, or bricks without straw, is not more difficult than it is to make a weak, backboneless man stand erect.

Women deceive themselves with the belief that the marriage ceremony is a sort of incantation that has only to be said over a man to transform him from a devil into an angel, and change his every taste and habit. Fallacious belief! The man who was a dipsomaniac before marriage will be just as thirsty afterward. The man who was lazy before marriage will hate to work just as much afterward. The man who lets his mother support him before marriage will have no shame in letting his wife keep boarders to take care of him after marriage. These things are as much a part of the man as his eyes or his hair, and no woman can change them.

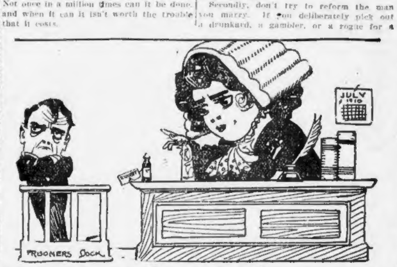
There is no other thing in the world that is so exaggerated as what we call "woman's influence." In reality "woman's influence" over man doesn't amount to a row of pins. The most that any woman can do for a man is to stimulate him. She can help him on, on the course on which he is going, and accelerate his pace, but she cannot change his destination.

It Isn't Worth the Trouble

This is true, whether the man's road leads up or down. If a man is good and true, his wife can help him reach the heights. If he is industrious and ambitious, she can help him boost himself up the ladder. But if he is a drunkard, not all her efforts will keep him out of the gutter. If he is shiftless and no account, not all her labor will put vim and energy into him.

On the other hand, the bad woman is not the siren, with occult powers, as she is popularly painted. She merely stimulates what is worst in a bad, or a weak man, and her influence seems so great because the downward path is always a greased toboggan slide.

In all sincerity, nothing else has done so much to strew the shores of matrimony with the wrecks of the broken hearts and the blasted lives of women as the theory that a man can be reformed by marriage. Not once in a million times can it be done, and when it can it isn't worth the trouble that it costs.



Your husband will fear you if you are always sitting over him in the attitude of a judge pronouncing sentence.

It is a painful process to try to make over a weakling, and it is not often that a woman's love survives the contempt she comes to feel for the creature in the shape of a man that is not a man, that has neither strength to stand alone nor self-control to resist, nor intelligence to look ahead, nor energy to strive, who is nothing but a coward and a quitter on the battlefield of life.

Don't Try to Reform a Man

Any woman who marries a man to reform him is a self-deluded fool. She is attempting the impossible, and is bound to fail, and make both herself and the man miserable in her fruitless efforts to change what cannot be changed.

To my correspondent, and all other girls who are debating this problem, I have two pieces of advice to give.

First, don't marry a man to reform him. If you want a husband who comes up to your ideal, marry a man who is already a man.

Secondly, don't try to reform the man you marry. If you deliberately pick out a drunkard, a gambler, or a rogue for a husband you take him as he is. Get up and open the door for him when he comes staggering home without a reproach. Don't say a word when he runs after other women. Go to work and support him without a complaint when he doesn't support you. Just enjoy whatever there is of charm and fascination in him, whatever it was in him that you fell in love with, and let the balance go.

That's the only way you will ever get any happiness, for you won't be able to alter your husband's nature, and your husband will come to hate you and fear you if you are always sitting over him in the attitude of a judge who is about to pronounce sentence.

The Illustrious Prince

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

Copyright, 1910, by Little, Brown & Company

CHAPTER XIII.

East and West

AFTER the supper there were obligations which the Prince, whose sense of etiquette was always strong, could not avoid. He took Penelope back to her aunt, reminding her that the next dance but one belonged to him. Miss Morse, who was an invalid and was making one of her very rare appearances in society, watched him curiously as he disappeared.

"I wonder what they'd think of your new admirer in New York, Penelope," she remarked.

"I imagine," Penelope answered, "that they would envy me very much."

Miss Morse, who was a New Englander of the old-fashioned type, opened her lips, but something in her niece's face restrained her.

"Well, at any rate," she said, "I hope we don't go to war with them. The Admiral wrote me, a few weeks ago, that he saw no hope for anything else."

"It would be a terrible complication," the Duchess sighed, "especially considering our own alliance with Japan. I don't think we need consider it seriously, however. Over in America you people have too much common sense."

"The government have, very likely," Miss Morse admitted, "but it isn't always the government who decide things or who even rule the country. We have an omnipotent Press, you know. All that's wanted is a weak president, and heavens knows where we should be!"

"Of course," the Duchess remarked, "Prince Maiyo is half an Englishman. His mother was a Stretton-Wynne. One of the first intermarriages, I should think. Lord Stretton-Wynne was Ambassador to Japan."

"I think," said Penelope, "that if you could look into Prince Maiyo's heart you would not find him half an Englishman. I think that he is more than seven-eighths a Japanese."

"I have heard it whispered," the Duchess remarked, leaning forward, "that he is over here on an exceedingly serious mission. One thing is quite certain. No one from his country, or from any other country, for that matter, has ever been so entirely popular amongst us. He has the most delightful manners of any man I ever knew of any race."

Sir Charles came up, with gloomy face, to claim a dance. After it was over, he led Penelope back to her aunt almost in silence.

A Jealous Suitor

"You are dancing again with the Prince?" he asked.

"Certainly," she answered. "Here he comes."

The Prince smiled pleasantly at the young man, who towered like a giant above him, and noticed at once his lack of cordiality.

"I am selfish!" he exclaimed, pausing with Penelope's hand upon his coat sleeve. "I am taking you too much away from your friends, and spoiling your pleasure, perhaps, because I do not dance. Is it not so? It is your kindness to a stranger, and they do not all appreciate it."

"We will go into the winter garden and talk it over," she answered, smiling.

They found their old seats unoccupied. Once more they sat and listened to the fall of the water.

"Prince," said Penelope, "there is one thing I have learned about you this evening, and that is that you do not love questions. And yet there is one other which I should like to ask you."

"If you please," the Prince murmured.

"You spoke, a little time ago," she continued, "of some great crisis with which your country might soon come face to face. Might I ask you this: were you thinking of war with the United States?"

He looked at her in silence for several moments.

"Dear Miss Penelope," he said, "may I call you that? Forgive me if I am too forward, but I hear so many of our friends——"

"You may call me that," she interrupted softly.

"Let me remind you, then, of what we were saying a little time ago," he went on. "You will not take offence? You will understand, I am sure. Those things that lie nearest to my heart concerning my country are the things of which I cannot speak."

"Not even to me?" she pleaded. "I am so insignificant. Surely I do not count?"

"Miss Penelope," he said, "you yourself are a daughter of that country of which we have been speaking."

She was silent.

"You think, then," she asked, "that I put my country before everything else in the world?"

"I believe," he answered, "that you would. Your country is too young to be wholly degenerate. It is true that you are a nation of fused races—a strange medley of people, but still you are a nation. I believe that in time of stress you would place your country before everything else."

"And therefore?" she murmured.

"And therefore," he continued with a delightful smile, "I shall not discuss my hopes or fears with you. Or if we do discuss them," he went on, "let us weave them into fairy tale. Let us say that you are indeed the Daughter of All America and that I am the Son of All Japan. You know what happens in fairyland when two great nations rise up to fight?"

"Tell me," she begged.

"Why, the Daughter of All America and the Son of All Japan stand hand in hand before their people, and as they plight their troth, all bitter feelings pass away, the shouts of anger cease, and there is no more talk of war."

She sighed, and leaned a little towards him. Her eyes were soft and dusky, her red lips a little parted.

A Daughter of America.

"But I," she whispered, "am not the Daughter of All America."

"Nor am I," he answered with a sigh, "the Son of All Japan."

There was a breathless silence. The water splashed into the basin, the music came throbbing in through the flower-hung doorways. It seemed to Penelope that she could almost hear her heart beat. The blood in her veins was dancing to the one perfect waltz. The moments passed. She drew a little breath and ventured to look at him. His face was still and white, as though, indeed, it had been carved out of marble, but the fire in his eyes was a living thing.

"We have actually been talking nonsense," she said, "and I thought that you, Prince, were far too serious."

"We were talking fairy tales," he answered, "and they are not nonsense. Do not you ever read the history of your country as it was many hundreds of years ago, before this ugly thing they call civilization weakened the sinews of our race and besmirched the very face of duty? Do you not like to read of the times when life was simpler and more natural, and there was space for every man to live and grow and stretch out his hands to the skies—every man and every woman? They call them, in your literature, the days of romance. They existed, too, in my country. It is not nonsense to imagine for a little time that the ages between have rolled away and that those days are with us?"

"No," she answered, "it is not nonsense. But if they were?"

He raised her fingers to his lips and kissed them. The touch of his hand, the absolute delicacy of the salute itself, made it unlike any other caress she had ever known or imagined.

"The world might have been happier for both of us," he whispered.

Somerfield, sullen and discontented, came and looked at them, moved away, and then hesitatingly returned.

"Wilmott is waiting for you," he said. "The last was my dance, and this is his."

She rose at once and turned to the Prince.

"I think that we should go back," she said. "Will you take me to my aunt?"

"If it must be so," he answered. "Tell me, Miss Penelope," he added, "may I ask your aunt or the Duchess to bring you one day to my house to see my treasures? I cannot say how long I shall remain in this country. I would like you so much to come before I break up my little home."

"Of course we will," she answered. "My aunt goes nowhere, but the Duchess will bring me, I am sure. Ask her when I am there, and we can agree about the day."

He leaned a little towards her.

"To-morrow?" he whispered.

She nodded. There were three engagements for the next day of which she took no heed.

"To-morrow," she said. "Come and let us arrange it with the Duchess."

Prince Maiyo left Devenham House to find the stars paling in the sky, and the light of an April dawn breaking through the black clouds eastward. He dismissed his electric brougham with a little wave of the hand, and turned to walk to his house in St. James's Square. As he walked, he bared his head. After the long hours of artificially heated rooms, there was something particularly soothing about the fresh sweetness of the early spring morning. There was something, it seemed to him, which reminded him, however faintly, of the mornings in his own land,—the perfume of the flowers from the window-boxes, perhaps, the absence of that hideous roar of traffic, or the faint aromatic scent from the lime trees in the Park, heavy from recent rain. It was the quietest hour of the twenty-four—the hour almost of dawn. The night wayfarers had passed away, the great army of toilers as yet slumbered. One sad-eyed woman stumbled against him as he walked slowly up Piccadilly. He lifted his hat with an involuntary gesture, and her laugh changed into a sob. He turned round, and emptied his pockets of silver into her hand, hurrying away quickly that his eyes might not dwell upon her face.

"A Coward Always."

"A coward always," he murmured to himself, a little wearily, for he knew where his weakness lay—an invincible repugnance to the ugly things of life. As he passed on, however, his spirits rose again. He caught a breath of lilac scene from a closed florist's shop. He looked up to the skies, over the housetops, faintly blue, growing clearer every moment. Almost he fancied that he looked again into the eyes of this strange girl, recalled her unexpected yet delightful frankness, which to him, with his love of abstract truth, was, after all, so fascinating. Oh, there was much to be said for this Western world!—much to be said for those whose part it was to live in it! Yet, never so much as during that brief night walk through the silent streets, did he realize how absolutely unfitted he was to be even a temporary sojourner in the vast city.

"What would they say of him if they knew—of him, a breaker of their laws, a guest, and yet one whose hand it was which would strike them, some day or other, the great blow! What would she think of him? He wondered whether she would realize the truth, whether she would understand. Almost as he asked himself the question, he smiled. To him it seemed a strange proof of the danger in which a weaker man would stand of passing under the yoke of this hateful Western civilization. To dream of her—yes! To see her face shining upon him from every beautiful place, to feel the delight of her presence with every delicious sensation—the warmth of the sunlight, the perfume of the blossoms he loved! There was joy in this, the joy of the artist and the lover. But to find her in his life, a real person, a daughter of this new world, whose every instinct would be at war with his—that way lay slavery! He brushed the very thought from him.

As he reached the door of his house in St. James' square, it opened slowly before him. He had brought his own servants from his own country, and in their master's absence sleep was not for them. His butler spoke to him in his own language. The Prince nodded and passed on. On his study table—a curious note of modernism where everything seemed to belong to a bygone world—was a cablegram. He tore it open. It consisted of one word only. He let the thin paper fall fluttering from his fingers. So the time was fixed!

Then Soto came gliding noiselessly into the room, fully dressed, with tireless eyes but wan face—Soto, the prototype of his master, the most perfect secretary and servant evolved through all the years.

"Master," he said, "there has been trouble here. An Englishman came with this card."

The Prince took it, and read the name of Inspector Jack.

"Well?" he murmured.

"The man asked questions," Soto continued. "We spoke English so badly that he was puzzled. He went away, but he will come again."

The Prince smiled, and laid his hand almost caressingly upon the other's shoulder.

"It is of no consequence, Soto," he said—"no consequence whatever."

CALLED HER FALLEN ANGEL

GENERAL FUNSTON tells a story of a soldier in the Philippines who was nursed through the rice fever. On his recovery he thanked the nurse like this:

"Thank you very much, ma'am, fer yer kindness. I shan't never forgit it. If ever there was a fallen angel, you're one."

Mothers and Secrets

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

IT is a pet theory of man that woman can't keep a secret. As a matter of fact, she is about as good as it as man himself, but that is not what I want to talk about.

What I want to do is tell my girls that if they must tell their secrets there is one safe person in whom to confide, and that is their mother.

Other girls will tell or they will misunderstand, but mother will never tell, and she will always understand and sympathize.

When you are a little girl you run to mother with every hurt of the body. Only her tender touch can comfort.

Now that you are a big girl, go to her with every hurt of the soul. Don't you know that there is nothing in the world that you might do that would fail to find forgiveness in her eyes. Her open arms and the gate to her soul are never closed to her child.

No matter how far you have strayed, there is always the shining beacon of her love to guide you back to her.

That wonderful, perfect love never wavers.

The Best Confidant.

From the hour she first pillows your downy head on her heart until the grave closes over one or the other, her love is there.

So, don't you see, little girl, that you must make her your confidant in all your joys and troubles?

Tell her about the girls and boys you know.

Tell her just how the boys talk to you and treat you, and her wise heart and unerring judgment where you are concerned will be quick to detect anything that is not as it should be.

Don't be ashamed to tell your love story to her. She was once a girl herself, you know, and had just as sweet a love story as yours. If the man who makes love to you does not want to meet your mother, there is something seriously wrong about him.

His great anxiety should be to meet her and find favor in her eyes.

Many girls have the foolish habit of forming hasty friendships with other girls that are as short lived as they are violent. During these spasms of friendliness they tell their inmost thoughts and secrets. Then a quarrel breaks the flimsy friendship, and the secrets are flung to the winds. Now, if these girls could be content to tell their secrets to their mother they would be as safe as though never spoken.

Tell your secrets, my dears, but only to one person and let that person be your mother. She is one woman who can keep a secret, especially if it is her girl's secret.

IN THE AUTOMOBILE WARD

F. H. ELLIOTT, secretary of the American Automobile Association, was discussing at a dinner in New York the automobilist's well known enthusiasm.

"A friend of mine," he said, "visited recently the automobile ward of a lunatic asylum. They have, you know, automobile wards now.

"It was a large, airy room, and along the wall were arranged some two dozen cots, but of the inmates not a trace was to be seen.

"'But where are the inmates?' my friend asked the physician.

"'The inmates?' was the reply. 'Oh, they're all here. They're under the beds tinkering with the springs.'"

Your Freckles

Summer Sun Brings Out Ugly Spots
Easy Way to Remove Them.

The woman with tender skin dreads the July sun because it is sure to cover her face with ugly freckles. No matter how thick her veil, the burning sun will surely make her freckle.

Fortunately for her peace of mind, the recent discovery of a new drug, othine—double strength—makes it possible for those even most susceptible to freckles to keep the skin clear and white. No matter how stubborn a case of freckles you have, the double strength othine will remove them.

How Miss Kraatz Cured Her Freckles.

816 Broadway St.
Martin's Ferry, Ohio, Sept. 16, '09.

I can hardly express in words of praise the satisfaction that I received during the use of your wonderful remedy, othine—double strength—for freckles.

Will be glad to recommend it to all my friends. Yours sincerely,

MISS CLARA KRAATZ.

Need Attention Now or Face Will Stay Freckled All Summer.

Now is the time to take special care of the complexion if you wish it to look well the rest of the year. The sun brings out freckles that will stay all Summer unless removed now with othine—double strength.

This prescription for the cure of freckles is the discovery of an eminent skin specialist, and is so uniformly successful that it is sold by Houghton & Dutton under guarantee to refund the money if it fails. Get an ounce of othine—double strength—and even the first night's application will show a wonderful improvement, some of the smaller freckles even vanishing entirely.

Society Woman Cured.

406 Spring St.
Buffalo, N. Y., July 2, 1910.

I wrote you some time ago relative to your othine treatment. I want to say I bought a jar of the cream. It has taken all the freckles and moth patches from my face. My friends are asking me every day what I have done to improve my complexion, so I must say I am very much pleased. I remain yours,

MISS E. M. SHOUHART.

Don't Be "Freckle-Face."

Do you know how easy it is to remove those ugly spots so that no one will call you freckle face?

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength—from Houghton & Dutton and one night's treatment will show you how easy it is to rid yourself of freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Be sure to ask for the double strength othine, as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove the freckles.

Gave Beautiful Pink Complexion.

Fillmore, Utah, May 30, 1910.

I am certainly delighted to tell you my freckles are gone. My skin is white and a very delicate pink. I used the cream as directed and in a few days could almost see the freckles going away. I have a little of the jar left. My friends admire my complexion and have asked me what I have been doing with it, and I was very much pleased to tell them what I was doing.

I remain as ever, yours truly,

HAZEL HATTON.

Money Back if Not Cured.

Now is the time to rid yourself of freckles, for if not removed now they will stay all Summer, and spoil an otherwise beautiful complexion. Money back if othine fails.

AMERICAN WANT "ADS" BRING RESULTS

Musicales Are Popular at the Shore Resorts

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

Musicales seem to be the most popular form of entertainment for the fashionables at the various resorts and with Mrs. Hall McAllister's series being given at the smart-set homes along the North Shore, the first of which took place Friday at the Washington B. Thomas mansion at Prides Crossing, and the promising one of next Thursday evening to be given at Cohasset by the well known tenor, Alfred Donghausen, and twenty members of the Apollo Club, with Emil Mollenhauer as conductor, the demand will be pretty well filled. All the fashionable South Shore set will be out in force for with a list of such prominent society leaders as patronesses the affair cannot help being a success. Among those who are on the list are: Mrs. Herbert Lyman, Mrs. Hugh Bancroft, Mrs. Harry H. Gay, Mrs. Oliver H. Howe, Mrs. William Faxon, Jr., Miss Mary C. Sears, Mrs. William R. Cole, Mrs. Clarence W. Barron, Mrs. Charles W. Gammon, Mrs. Timothy E. Byrnes, Mrs. Howard Key Bartow, Mrs. George G. Crocker, Mrs. Charles C. Wheelwright, Mrs. William H. Brown, Mrs. Edward B. Bailey, Mrs. Matthew Luce and Mrs. E. Snow, Jr.

* * *

Count and Countess Von Courten, who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Dixey at their beautiful country place "Tanglewood" in Lenox have gone to New York.

* * *

Mrs. Julia Ward Howe who is at her Summer home near Newport is being congratulated upon the birth of a great-grandchild, the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Hugh Birckhead (Caroline Minturn Hall) who were married a little over a year ago and who are at Newport for the Summer. Mr. Birckhead is the rector of St. George's Church, New York.

* * *

An engagement just announced which is of much interest here owing to the wide acquaintance in our fashionable set of both parties, is that of Miss Mary G. Bell, a daughter of Colonel Samuel Bell and Mrs. Bell of Philadelphia, and Rudolph Kissel of New York and Morristown. The Bells are spending the Summer at York Harbor, Maine. Mr. Kissel is a widower, his first wife having been a daughter of Mrs. Davis Pierce Morgan and a sister of Mrs. J. Ridgley Carter. The wedding will probably take place in the early Autumn.

* * *

Among the recent arrivals at Hotel Pemberton, Hull, are Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Cannon who make their Winter home at the Somerset, and Mrs. Cannon's cousin, Miss Minnehan of Wisconsin.

* * *

Mrs. George A. Lewis is planning to give an open air fete at her home "Briar Wood" Scituate, July 30, when "A Midsummer Night's Dream" will be presented for the benefit of the Scituate Woman's Club.

* * *

Walter Dabney and Miss Susan Dabney of Beacon street, are at Bar Harbor for the Summer. William Colman of the Puritan Club is at Seal Harbor, Maine.

* * *

Miss Edith Deacon who has been making a round of visits with relatives and friends in Boston and on the North Shore arrived in Newport the last of the week to visit her grandmother, Mrs. Charles P. Baldwin with whom she will stay until her marriage to George Lee Peabody in the Fall. Miss Deacon and her fiance motored down to Newport from Boston. Mrs. H. Mortimer Brooks who is a relative of Miss Deacon and a number of prominent women in the fashionable colony at Newport are planning entertainments in honor of the couple.

* * *

One of the many Autumn weddings will be that of Miss Christine M. Dexter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Dexter of Maple street, Brookline and William Cabot Bramhall of Bay State Road, Harvard '07, whose engagement was announced in the early Summer.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Little of Salem have gone to their Summer home at Isles of Springs, Maine for the season.

* * *

Miss Heloise Meyer is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bemis at Beverly Farms.

* * *

Miss Alice Sargent who is spending the Summer with her parents, Professor and Mrs. Charles S. Sargent, at Marblehead, will sail her own sonder boat again this season in the trials for boats which will meet the Spanish sonder boats to be sent over to race for the Taft cup in August.

* * *

Lieutenant and Mrs. George S. Patton, who were guests of Mrs. Patton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Ayer at Pride's Crossing after their recent return from their short honeymoon trip abroad, have gone to their new home at Fort Sheridan, Ill., where Lieutenant Patton is stationed. Mrs. Patton was Beatrice Ayer before her marriage, which was one of the important nuptial events of the early Summer.

* * *

Dr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Mixter of Marlboro street, are occupying their cottage at Galloupe's Point, Swampscott, where they are doing much entertaining.

* * *

Mrs. Webster Wilson of Brookline and her daughter, Mrs. Matthew Tyson of Baltimore, are at Atlantic City for a few weeks before going to Manchester for the remainder of the Summer.

FUNERALS OF TWO DROWNING VICTIMS

The funerals of Sergeant Thomas Regan and Miss May Higgins, victims of Friday's drowning accidents on the Charles, were held to-day. Services for Higgins were held at the Church of Our Lady, Newton. Members of Company C, Fifth Regiment, of which the victim was a member, were present. The interment was at Calvary, Waltham.

The funeral of Miss Higgins was held from St. Bernard's Church, West Newton. Interment was at Waltham.

TWO FIREMEN INJURED.

PITTSBURG, July 18.—Six firemen and two other men were seriously hurt and twenty-five horses were burned to death in a fire which destroyed A. S. Breitweiser's lumber yard to-day, causing $75,000 damage.

The Labor Troubles on the Pennsylvania Railroad

The Workingmen and the Company Will Give the Matter Grave and VERY DELIBERATE Consideration

Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal-Examiner

Many thousands of employes on the Pennsylvania Railroad are in disagreement with the company.

As in all great strikes affecting the entire country, the most important consideration is the welfare of the people as a whole, for in a republic the greater number must rule. And the consideration next in importance is the welfare of the workingmen—for they outnumber greatly the managers and stockholders of the company. And third in importance come the managers of the railroads who get the good salaries, and the stockholders who get the dividends—without risking their lives or working long hours.

The demands of the men as we understand them practically amount to this: THEY WANT TO WORK TEN HOURS A DAY INSTEAD OF ELEVEN, AND TO RECEIVE FOR TEN HOURS' WORK THE PAY THAT THEY NOW RECEIVE FOR ELEVEN HOURS' WORK.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company replies that their men as a whole are treated, and have been treated for years, BETTER THAN MEN DOING SIMILAR WORK FOR OTHER COMPANIES. They say that the Pennsylvania has recently been compelled to spend enormous sums for improvement—which is true—and that the tens of millions which the company has laid out in improvements will benefit the entire nation, increase the business of the road, create a demand for more labor, and eventually make it possible for the railroad to carry out its well established policy of paying wages higher than are ordinarily paid.

The demands of the workingmen seem reasonable enough under ordinary circumstances. They are justified in saying that eleven hours is too long a day's work, and that if the company reduces the day's work to ten hours, the pay should not be reduced, assuming that the pay is only what a man requires in order to live decently and support his family decently.

It is reasonable for the men to say that they OUGHT to work only ten hours a day, for common sense in America recognizes, except in cases of the greatest emergency, THAT TEN HOURS IS A DAY LONG ENOUGH, AND IN MOST CASES TOO LONG.

The man who works ten hours is very apt to give about all that is in him in the twenty-four hours. If the men decide to go on strike, to precipitate a great conflict, and perhaps take an important step toward bringing on harder times, at this critical juncture, it will not be possible for any man to deny the justice of their demands.

Their demands ARE NOT UNREASONABLE.

On the other hand the level-headed workingman on the Pennsylvania must think of his own side of the case, of the railroad's side of the case, and OF THE PUBLIC AND THE PUBLIC'S SIDE OF THE CASE.

The Pennsylvania has been conspicuous for many years in its generous treatment of its employes. And this the Pennsylvania workingmen know.

Recently other railroads have been increasing the pay of their men, or shortening the hours of their men, AND YET WITH THE INCREASES AND IMPROVEMENT IN CONDITIONS ON OTHER RAILROADS THE PENNSYLVANIA UNDOUBTEDLY STANDS TO-DAY EQUAL OR SUPERIOR TO ANY OTHER RAILROAD IN ITS TREATMENT OF EMPLOYES.

The Pennsylvania Railroad workers say that inasmuch as the Pennsylvania has always done better than other roads, it is the duty of the Pennsylvania to do still better, now that the other railroads have also done better.

Perhaps this is reasonable, perhaps not.

The Pennsylvania tells the truth when it says that it has worked against very hard conditions. It has spent for its terminal improvements in New York City tens of millions of dollars—perhaps close upon one hundred millions in all. This means that the net profits of the road have been diminished; the stock which at one time paid seven per cent. pays only six per cent. now, and in the public market the stock is selling very low, which means that the expert does not consider that the Pennsylvania Railroad is earning a great deal over and above what it pays its workingmen.

The Pennsylvania has established a pension system for employes. Naturally a strike on the part of the men means abandoning the claims of these pensions.

It would be the duty of an honest workingman, sticking to his fellows and faithful to his union, to put aside all question of pension, ALL QUESTION OF PERSONAL PROFIT. But the intelligent man considers everything before he acts.

The men, in justice to themselves and their families and the general welfare of workingmen, must consider the PROBABILITY of victory in a strike.

First, they must remember that the stock of the Pennsylvania Railroad is already low—about as low as it can reasonably be expected to go. And therefore they cannot coerce the road with any hope of diminishing the prices of stock by temporarily diminishing earning capacity.

And the men must also remember THAT POLITICS PLAYS NO PART IN THE MINDS OF RAILROAD OWNERS THIS YEAR.

Ordinarily before an important election men on strike feel that the employer who wants to see the Republican money party in power will give in rather than risk making Democratic votes.

But just at present the owners of railroads and of corporations generally LOOK TO THE DEMOCRATS WITH EYES OF HOPE. There isn't any railroad owner worrying about the defeat of the Republicans this year. On the contrary, more than three-quarters of the owners of railroads and other corporations would be glad to see the Republicans beaten.

The Pennsylvania Railroad doesn't care two cents whether Pennsylvania goes Republican or Democratic. In f[illegible] the men that have

The Youth Who Saw Visions

By THOMAS TAPPER

THE river flowed, the bluebells swayed in the wind, the mavis sang, the chimneys smoked and the people worked.

Where?

This might be one of a thousand places on the face of the earth.

Why select this one?

Because there dwelt a man there who, out of the common scenes of life about him, constructed simple pictures in which the most humble could read the spiritual significance of the world of common things in which he lived.

When a country possesses even one man who reads its symbols aright it is rich in that man and immortal in his words.

II.

FROM the room where the family lived a ladder gave access to another room above, low-lying under the eaves. In this upper room there were a bed, a table and a chair.

At the close of day, weary with his labor in unfertile fields, a young man toiled up the ladder and seated himself at the table.

All day long, as he worked, he sang to himself. So absorbed was he at times that the approach of his wife or of a little one went unnoticed. Though his body was in the field or moving along the path, his spirit was following the vision of his song; how far away, only those who sing to their visions can tell.

And now at night with a farthing candle he sits at his table, coaxing the visions back again, so that he can reach forth and grasp them and confine them in English words, that they may come again at his bidding or at ours, rising like a troop of butterflies in the air.

Now, this youth, his body racked with the pain of physical labor; this youth, with his visions, had, like many men who lived by flowing rivers and smoking cottages, his moments of unwisdom. Indeed, to this youth there had come so many such moments that, as he sat at his table one night, he could find no other solution for his troubles than in running away from them.

He looked the wide world over, though his body had always lived in a narrow world, and determined to escape to the Island of Jamaica. It was a long way thither from the fields where the bluebells sway in the wind, and the youth had no more money than the mavis that sang in the fields.

He determined to print his visions in a little book, to offer his book for sale, and thus secure the means of escape.

III.

THE signal of his coming was a white cloth floating (like a banner of truth) from the top of a haystack. Wherever it went up there ran thither from all directions ministers and serving maids, men of affairs and plow-boys. They had all read the visions and had called to the youth, "Do not run from us; we will run to you!"

And they came, to look upon him, to touch his hand, to hear his voice.

The banner went up from haystack to haystack across the country, to the very Olympian heights of the city's aristocracy.

Thus it happened that, instead of running away, like a hunted criminal, to the Island of Jamaica, the youth rode like a prince of the earth into the very castles of its lords and ladies.

And when the welcome and the reception that were given him in testimony of their love for the truth of his visions were over he went humbly back again to his river, his fields and his smoking chimneys. And he had other visions, and with them other moments of unwisdom.

The days passed (there were destined not to be many days in all for him), and on one of them he lay on his death-bed, crying aloud for the help of a friend who would save him from a debtor's prison.

IV.

TEN thousand people in the streets! Ten thousand men, women and children as sore at heart, as full of grief as if death had robbed them of their dearest one.

The fields and the smoking chimneys had been sung. The little world in which he had found companionship with the daisies and field mice had now no one to speak for it. But the men who were left to mourn him had learned of him justice and independence and fellowship.

And when one turned to another in that gathering of ten thousand and said, "Bobbie Burns is dead," there was no shame for the tears. For to all of them the land shimmered with visions, and they saw the visions were true.

hitherto voted Republican should vote Democratic they would probably please the Pennsylvania Railroad exceedingly by doing so.

Therefore politics may be omitted from the question of to-day.

And there is the greatest question of all, the question of the public's interest, the question of THE GENERAL WELFARE.

All men with a sense of justice will sympathize with the men so far as the GETTING OF TEN HOURS is concerned.

But men who understand conditions, men who realize that the ordinary workingman depends especially upon general prosperity, realize also that this is a very unfortunate moment for a general labor disturbance.

Times are not good; the panic of 1907 was a severe blow, and a much worse blow could easily follow. It is important that men should be kept at work; that capital should be invested; that, for the present at least, there should be no serious disturbance in industrial conditions.

If a man wants, regardless of all things, to have a general turnover in our industrial system—that is ONE thing.

If he is willing to have work stopped, hundreds of thousands idle and general business depression—and if he understands what it is that he works for—well and good. HE HAS A PLAN.

But the working man, with his two or three dollars a day, is the man most affected by sudden and violent "hard times."

A great railroad strike, spreading perhaps to numerous railroads, might have a very serious effect upon the prosperity of workingmen, and it might really offer a good excuse to the railroad managers for the dropping in their stock—in other words, it might be bad for the workmen and not so very bad for the railroad.

The Boston American realizes that every employe on the Pennsylvania is an intelligent citizen, with a perfect right to work or not to work, and not only a right BUT A DUTY TO UNITE WITH HIS FELLOWS FOR THE PROTECTION OF ALL. The Boston American realizes that these men must think out their own problems, reach their own conclusions, AND ACT UPON THEIR BEST JUDGMENT.

The Boston American, always friendly to workers, anxious that they should make no mistake, urges that they at least give very mature deliberation to the matter in hand.

This does not appear to be a case of sudden ill-treatment; it is not an unusual and violent grievance. The men that are now demanding changed conditions less than a year ago considered themselves the best treated workmen in the railroad world under those same conditions.

Their demands are not unreasonable, but it may be that the Pennsylvania, which has treated its men as well as it could for many years, which has set an example that the other railroads have only recently and RELUCTANTLY FOLLOWED, has good arguments on its side when it says that the men should not "crowd the mourners"; that they should not take advantage of difficult financial conditions, to bring on added troubles—as dangerous to the workingman in the long run as for the railroad itself.

Those that are far-seeing, as well as just, will perhaps believe that the men who have considered themselves fortunate under the Pennsylvania conditions for so many years might have waited, or SELECTED SOME OTHER MOMENT THAN THE PRESENT for the action.
